Umpires—Reardon, McCormick, Rigler and Quigley. Attendance—22,000.

BY J. ROY STOCKTON
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Aug. 31.—William Sherdel, the little left-handed member of the Cardinal pitching staff, and Henry Lee Meadows, the pitcher who wears spectacles, were selected for hurling duty this afternoon in the opening game of the second successive double-header here between the third-place Cardinals and the league leading Pirates.

Having tied one and won one of the three games played, the Cards are still within striking distance of the lead, so close, indeed, that a double victory today would put them in first place, if Cincinnati were to lose, and another large crowd attended. Early indications were that the attendance would not be as large as on Sunday, when 35,078 persons paid, or yesterday when the turnstiles clicked 29,522 times. However, 15 minutes before game time, only the left field and right field sections of the grandstand were unoccupied, though many of the holders of box and reserved seats had not yet arrived and therefore there were open gaps here and there. Early estimates yesterday were very inaccurate, for whereas it appeared that the crowd would not exceed 20,000 the late rush brought the total to nearly 30,000.

Estimates of the crowd today indicated a general expectation that the paid attendance would be between 20,000 and 25,000.

The threatening weather caused the umpires to start the game five minutes early.

The game:

FIRST INNING.

PITTSBURG—Waner flied to Hafey. Rhyne flied to Douthit. Cuyler popped a single to center. Traynor flied to Douthit. NO RUNS.

CARDS—Douthit doubled to left center. Southworth hit to Meadows and Douthit was run down. Meadows to Traynor to Rawlings, and Southworth was doubled off first, Rawlings to Granham. Hornsby grounded to Rawlings. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

PITTSBURG—Barnhart popped to O'Farrell near the pitcher's box. Grantham popped to Sherdel. Rawlings popped to Hornsby. NO RUNS.

CARDINALS—Bottomley flied to Cuyler. Bell singled to center. Hafey forced Bell, Rhyne to Rawlings. O'Farrell singled to right, sending Hafey to third. Thevenow was safe when Ryrne fumbled his grounder, Hafey scoring and O'Farrell stopping at second. Rawlings threw out Sherdel. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING.

PITTSBURG—Smith was hit by a pitched ball. Meadows bunted, but forced Smith, Sherdel to Thevenow. Southworth ranged far into center and pulled down Waner's drive. Bell made a fine stop of Rhyne's smash down the third base line and his long throw retired the runner by a step. NO RUNS.

CARDINALS—Douthit singled to left. Southworth singled to right, sending Douthit to third. Hornsby sent Cuyler to the fence for his long sacrifice fly, Douthit scoring and Southworth reaching second. Bottomley gave Cuyler another long run, sending him to the richt center wall for his sacrifice fly, which put Southworth o nthird. Bell delivered another smash, but it sailed into the left field bleachers for a home run and as Southworth trotted home and Bell followed him, crew hats by the score sailed from the stands and the crowd enjoyed its greatest cheer of this hectic

"little world's series." Apparently the straw hat shower grated on the nerves of the four umpires and they held a powwow with Traynor, the Pirate captain, and Manager Hornsby, pointing to the field, where the straw skimmers were strewn in profusion, they decided that nothing could be done about it and play was resumed. Hafey tapped to Meadows. THREE RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

PITTSBURG—Cuyler hit into the left field bleachers for a home run. Traynor singled to center. Barnhart flied to Hafey. Grantham flied to Douthit. Rawlings lined to Douthit. ONE RUN.

CARDINALS—O'Farrell singled to center. Thevenow flied to Cuyler. Sherdel, popped to Rhyne. Douthit hit in front of the plate and was thrown out by Meadows. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

PITTSBURG—Smith wa sout on strikes. Meadows tapped to Sherdel. Thevenow tossed out Waner. NO RUNS.

CARDINALS — Rawlings threw out Southworth. Cuyler made a shoestring catch of Hornsby's line drive. Botomley reached first when Barnhart droped his fly. Bell forced Bottomley, Traynor to Rawlings. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

PITTSBURG — Rhyne flied to Douthit. So did Cuyler. Traynor popped to Bottomley. NO RUNS.

CARDINALS—Hafey hit into the left field bleachers for a home run. O'Farrell struck out. Traynor threw out Thevenow. Sherdel singled to center. Douthit was safe when Rhyne fumbled his easy roller, Sherdel reaching second. Rawlings tossed out Southworth. ONE RUN.

MACMILLAN SHIP SAVED FROM DISASTER IN A FOG

Woman Sends Radio Describing Adventures as Sub-Arctic Expedition Starts Homeward.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 31.—How the schooner Sachem, the MacMillan sub-Arctic expedition, nearly sailed to destruction on the rocks in a fog, and how the Danes living 160 miles above the Arctic Circle welcomed the first American women they had ever seen is discribed by Mrs. Rowe B. Metcalf of this city, homeward bound, in a radiogram to the Providence Journal.

Only a rift in a heavy fog bank saved the party in Davis Strait, she says, when the vessel had drifted perilously close to the reef of an unseen island.

"In each settlement," she says, "the Danish Governors and all the Danes were very hospitable to us and did all they could to make our visit most enjoyable. Except for the Danish women, we were the only white women they had seen, as many of them could not remember Mrs. Peary."

Walrus hunting enlivened several hours of the trip, she says, and in Cyrus Field Bay a 1500-pound walrus was harpooned.

Commander Donald B. MacMillan, in a wireless message, announced the sailing today of his party in the schooners Sachem and Bowdoin from Battle Harbor, Labrador, for Sydney, N. S., where he expects to arrive in 10 days.

Bank notes of 5 and 10 lire denomination will be withdrawn from circulation and replaced by silver coins.

SIREN SCARES OFF MEN HOLDING UP KIRKWOOD BANK

LOOKOUT SIGNALED PALS TO ESCAPE

Stubborn Woman, Forgotton Sack and Phone Call for Help Combine to Save $15,000.

A bank robber, who forgot to bring a sack to carry away the loot, a stubborn young woman who refused to lie down, a telephone operator who scented trouble, and a siren perched on the top of Kirkwood's City Hall, contributed this morning to the failure of an attempted holdup of the Kirkwood Bank, 231 North Kirkwood road, by three men.

The bank saved $15,000 in cash by the odd combination of circumstances, but the robbers escaped while Kirkwood police rushed to the wrong bank in answer to the alarm.

The day's business was just getting under way when the robbers appeared in a Packard touring car at 9:45. One of them waited at the wheel and the other two, each with a revolver and each holding a handkerchief to his face, burst into the banking room.

Two customers, C. A. Scott and Mrs. William Riley, were making out deposit slips. Erwin R. Riemeier, the cashier, was at the telephone, and his brother, Nestor, assistant cashier, was working at a desk.

One robber thrust his weapon through the bars at Nestor Riemeier, ordered him to "Stick 'em up," then slipped around the cage. His companion marched the two customers into the cage.

The cashier dropped the telephone and raised his hands. At the Kirkwood telephone exchange, Miss Helen Held, 17 years of, of 151 Hazel street, Webster Groves, thought she heard a shout. "There's something wrong at the Kirkwood Bank," she called to Miss Ethel Bullock, chief operator. Miss Bullock pressed a button that rang a gong at police headquarters.

Meanwhile, at the bank, a robber ordered, "Lie down on the floor." The men obeyed. "I won't lie down," exclaimed Mrs. Riley. "You will,' shouted the robber, flourishing h's revolver. "I won't," said Mrs. Riley.

"Well, sit down then," the robber weakened. Mrs. Riley took a chair. From the vault issued Miss Mary Osdieck, a clerk, and Mrs. Riley b ckoned her to another chair.

"Where's the sack," said one robber to the other. "I forgot it," replied the accomplice.

Then the siren sounded from the City Hall two blocks away and the robber in the machine began tooting his horn lustily. The two men inside fled precipitately from the bank, and the automobile was last seen moving north at high speed. A passerby caught the license number and gave it to police.

At the first alarm, police started from the City Hall, in an automobile. By mistake they dashed first to the Kirkwood Trust Co., and realizing their error, went to the Kirkwood Bank, arriving five minutes after the robbers had gone.

MELLON CALLS ON BRIAND REVIVING INTEREST IN DEBT

American Secretary of Treasury Also to Discuss Finances Generally With Poincare.

PARIS IS HOPEFUL OF UNDERSTANDING

Visitor Says However, He Has No Authority to Negotiate as Matter Is Out of His Hands.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—The arrival here of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon of the United States has revived interest in the inter-allied debt question. Certain importance is attached to talks Mellon will have with Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand.

Responsible observers do not imagine these talks will modify the situation, but they express a belief that they will be of genuine service to both sides by removing misunderstandings, clearing up obscure points and paving the way for further discussion of France's debt to the United States.

The newspapers today print extracts from the article of Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in President Wilson's administration, proposing an international conference with American participation, to reconsider all inter-allied debt questions in order to keep markets open.

The Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune quotes former Gov. Cox of Ohio as favoring a readjustment of the debt question, with modifications of demands from all countries, as the best piece of foreign policy that the United States could adopt.

Mellon had a private conversation with Briand at the Quai D'Orsay this morning. It is understood the subject of finance was not mentioned.

He planned later to call on Poincare, but said he would not discuss the debt question as the whole matter now was out of his hands. He expected, however, that finances would be discussed generally and informally.

HOPES DEMOCRATS CHOOSE DEBT ISSUE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WHITE PINE CAMP, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Coolidge hopes the Democrats will follow the lead of Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, and make a fight in favor of debt cancellation. This is intimated by close friends of the President, who feel Baker's appeal will have no bearing on the administration policy.

Mr. Coolidge's stand in favor of the funding pacts is based primarily on the feeling that they are beyond his control, now that Congress has ratified them. Any negotiations for modification would have to be carried on with Congress, in his opinion, as powers of the debt commission extend only to completion of an agreement.

The President remembers the fight on the French and Italian settlements in the Senate and would hesitate to propose reopening them in the face of another storm from the irreconcilables.

Mr. Coolidge made no direct answer to Baker's proposal for cancellation but there are indications that he is preparing to take an active part in directing the Republican Congressional campaign when he returns to Washington. He is expected to issue statements or give advice on important issues as they develop.

Representative Ogden L. Mills (Rep.) of New York, a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, which investigated the debt settlements before reporting them to the House for approval, declared it would help Europe if the nations tried to realize the United States was sincere in demanding settlement.

"This is not the time to talk about cancellation," Mills said. "Whatever motives lie back of the statement by Mr. Baker, the immediate result of his words is to make it harder for us to help Europe to get on its feet."

President Knows of No Reason for Changing Debt Policy.

By the Associated Press.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Coolidge knows of no reason for making any change in the Government policy toward the foreign war-time debts owed the United States. While he has not read the proposal of Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War,

U. S. CRUISER ARRIVES AT NICARAGUAN PORT

Rochester Starts for Bragman's Bluff, Where Revolutionists Are Reported to Be Active.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The United States cruiser Rochester, under command of Rear Admiral Latimer, arrived today at Bragman's Bluff, Nicaragua, to protect foreign interests as a result of the revolutionary outbreak in Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 31.—Collector of Customs Wilson reports from Puerto Cabezas that the Liberal revolutionists have captured the port after nine hours fighting. Several persons are said to have been killed or wounded, among them some noncombatants. Wilson reports the customs service has not been molested so far.

Reports from Bluefields are that the revolutionists probably will engage the Government forces there tonight. The United States marines have declared the city itself a neutral zone so the fighting probably will be confined to the assault on El Bluff, a strategic point at the entrance of the harbor, the control of which means the control of the east coast of Nicaragua. The Government forces are reported strongly entrenched and confident.

William James Crompton, United States Collector of Customs, is in Bluefields with all his staff and reports all safe in the town itself.

The feat was made known today by the operator, Richard P. Upham, who waited until he received a card from E. F. Another postal card from Mesa, Ariz., informed Upham that an operator there had listened in on the signals.

Calais Gives Ernst Vierkoetter Enthusiastic Greeting After Record Channel Swim.

CROSSINGS EASIER, TIDES KNOWN NOW

William Burgess, Trainer, Attributes Recent Successes to Catchng Curren at Flow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CALAIS, Aug. 31.—Ernst Vierkoetter, who yesterday swam the English Channel in record time, left here today for his home in Cologne. He said he would train his wife to swim the channel.

He said that he had been saving for years to achieve his ambition of swimming the channel, but had managed to save only enough for one attempt. This was made Aug. 14, and failed when he was within sight of his goal.

He was preparing to leave Gris Nez when he remembered the former Crown Prince's reputation as a sportsman and decided to write, asking William to stake him.

Vierkoetter told the Prince that in view of the improved weather conditions, he was confident he not only could swim the channel, but could lower the record. William believed in him and remitted the necessary funds.

War antagonisms were forgotten today when Vierkoetter was received by the municipal authorities and given the unreserved plaudits of the whole city for his record-breaking swim.

The climax of the reception came when Mayor Leon Vincent presented Vierkoetter with a medal commemorating the feat, and the Frenchmen of Calais drank the German's health in champagne.

Vierkoetter Used Same Stroke Employed by Mrs. Corson.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

DOVER, Aug. 31.—Ernst Vierkoetter broke all records when he finished swimming the English Channel in 12 hours and 42 minutes, an hour and 48 minutes faster than Gertrude Ederle, previous holder of the record, made the trip.

Vierkoetter, blind in one eye but the champion long distance swimmer of his country, went to the French coast a few weeks ago and pitched his camp, practically unnoticed and ignored, five miles from Calais. He did not mix with the other channel aspirants and his start at 1:42 a. m. yesterday was witnessed by no one outside his immediate party.

Soldier and civilian workmen on the Dover fortifications saw a tug idling off shore, sure sign of a channel swimmer. A small rowboat then emerged from the heat haze overhanging the channel and finally the head of the swimmer was visible, making for the beach between St. Margaret's and Dover. He was plainly struggling to prevent the tide sweeping him westward, as there is no place to land between the beach and the eastern pier of Dover. He lost his eye as the result of a wound during the World War.

Double Trudgen Stroke.

Vierkoetter, who used a double trudgen stroke all the way the same stroke employed by Mrs. Clemington Corson (Mille Gade) in her successful swim, raised the beat to 26 a minute, a tremendous feat for a man who had been swimming for 12 hours.

Doggedly he drew nearer, gaining headway until he reached the shallows and stood up. Almost at once he collapsed and sat down in the water. The men in the accompanying rowboat jumped out, carried him up the beach and stretched him out on the sand.

A stiff drink of liquor and some hard-boiled eggs revived him after 20 minutes. His companions, however, carried him to the small boat and rowed out to the tug, which disappeared in the fog as soon as the swimmer was aboard.

A tiny group of Englishmen cheered as long as the tug was visible.

HENRY GREVE, GRAIN FIRM HEAD, FOUND DEAD

President of Wahl Commission Co., 70, Succumbs to Heart Stroke in Hotel Room.

Henry Greve, 70 years old, wealthy president of the John Wahl Commission Co., with a wide business and social acquaintance, was found dead in bed at 8 a. m. today in his room at Hotel Chase. His chauffeur visited the room at that time. Death was pronounced due to a heart stroke.

Mr. Greve had been in apparent fair health, and was at his downtown office yesterday. He returned early in August from a journey to Europe.

Mrs. Greve, who was the daughter of John Wahl, late president of the commission company and one of the founders of the German Savings Institution, parent institution of the present Liberty Central Trust Co., died in 1919.

Two sons and a daughter survive Mr. Greve. The sons are Edwin Joseph, treasurer, and Robert Francis, secretary, of the John Wahl Commission Co.; the daughter is Mrs. Bessie Brinkman. Since her marriage, Mr. Greve has lived alone at the Chase. His former residence was at 4605 Lindell boulevard.

Came to U. S. at 17.

He was a native of Germany, and studied at the University of Westphalia, before he came to the United States at the age of 17. He lived in Iowa, in Quincy, Ill., in Helena, Mont., and in San Francisco, before coming to St. Louis in 1875. He was in the dry goods jobbing business until 1881, when he became connected with the John Wahl Commission Co. His marriage to Miss Josephine Wahl occurred in the same year.

He became president of the Wahl company in 1910. Under his direction the firm, a grain commission firm, has also dealt heavily in pig lead and zinc.

Named Honorary Colonel.

Mr. Greve was named by Gov. Hyde, several years ago, as one of the honorary Colonels on his staff. He was active in public movements, and in the philanthropies of the Catholic Church. He presented to the St. Louis Cathedral the Archbishop's throne, which stands within the sanctuary, and he gave the organ to the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, on Forsythe boulevard, in University City.

He was active in outdoor sports, and particularly fond of horseback riding. His saddle horse, which he named "Forest Park," for years carried him almost daily over the park's bridal paths.

It is expected the funeral will be Thursday morning at the Cathedral.

ROY T. MYERS GETS 5 YEARS FOR FRAUD IN BANK FAILURE

Maximum Penalty Inflicted on Gorin, Mo., Cashier After Jury Deliberates Four Hours.

HE WILL APPEAL ON TECHNICAL POINTS

Claims Immunity — He Is the Only Person So Far Convicted in $500,000 Crash of 1924.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 31.—Roy T. Myers, cashier of the Citizens' Trust Co. of Gorin, Mo., which failed in July, 1924, with losses to depositors and stockholders aggregating approximately $500,000, was found guilty by a jury in the Adair County Circuit Court last night of having received deposits after the bank was in a failing condition.

His sentence was fixed at imprisonment for five years in the penitentiary.

Myers' attorneys immediately took an appeal, Myers giving bond and will fight the case in the Supreme Court on technical points.

Myers is the first to be found guilty of a group of bankers and one State official who were indicted in connection with the Gorin failure.

J. B. McCutchan of St. Louis, vice president of the Trust Co., whom Myers' attorneys in their arguments represented as the "brains of the Gorin conspiracy," was tried several months ago in Hannibal and acquitted.

Frank C. Millspaugh, State Finance Commissioner at the time the trust company was organized with fraudulent capital stock, who was indicted on charges of having failed to examine the bank although having knowledge of its insolvent condition, escaped trial in Memphis, Mo., nearly a year ago on technical defects in the two indictments against him.

Directors of the bank indicted more than a year ago have not been brought to trial.

Otto Promised Myers Immunity.

The failure of the Gorin bank attracted wide attention because of the long delay in the institution of criminal proceedings again Myers. It was virtually a year after the bank was closed and turned over to Commissioner Millspaugh that the first steps toward prosecution were taken and then it was against Millspaugh rather than Myers or the bank directors that the proceedings were directed. Myers had gone to Mexico and was operating a silver mine when Supreme Judge Otto, then Attorney General, arranged with Myers' attorneys that Myers should have immunity from prosecution in return for oral and documentary evidence against Millspaugh which Myers had in his possession.

Myers made a complete statement of the operation of the bank, and on evidence supplied by him two indictments charging misfeasance in office were returned against Millspaugh. Prior to these indictments Millspaugh was removed from office by Gov. Baker. When the indictments came on for trial it was found that one of Otto's assistants had omitted from the charge the allegation that Millspaugh had acted feloniously. The indictments were dismissed and Prosecuting Attorney Moore of Scotland County was asked to sign an information which it was intended to substitute for them. This he refused to do and the prosecution collapsed without bringing Millspaugh to trial on the facts.

Otto, it was found, was powerless to grant Myers the immunity he had promised, that power being vested solely in the Prosecuting Attorney of the county in which the venue of the alleged offense lay. Moore refused to carry out Otto's promise. As a result, 22 indictments were returned against Myers, whose first trial was completed here last night.

Jury Out Four Hours.

M. D. Campbell, chief counsel for the State, in his argument to the jury outlined the insolvent condition of the bank and asked that the jury return a verdict against Myers as a warning to "crooked bankers." Moore told the jury that Myers "was the bank" and received deposits knowing the bank would fail and that the depositors would be deprived of their money.

For the defense Elmer O. Jones of La Platte and John Taylor of Chillicothe argued that the prosecution of Myers was at the instance of the State Finance Department, which, they said, "sought Myers' conviction while the real guilty ones escape."

The jury had the case under consideration four hours before returning a verdict fixing the maximum punishment.

Attorney Taylor, representing Myers, said that he was confident the higher court would reverse the judgment. Taylor contends that Circuit Judge Cooley erred in refusing to recognize the immunity promise of the Attorney-General as a bar to prosecution of Myers and in refusing to grant a change of venue, which was asked on the ground that Judge Cooley was prejudiced against the defendant.

WAR ANTAGONISM BURIED AS FRENCH ACCLAIM GERMAN sea when Vierkoetter started his swim and got into the usual favorable tide at Gris Nez. Behind came the tug "Europe," with some German friends and swimming enthusiasts. At dayberak the wind rose and the sea on the Dover shore was rough, but soon afterward the wind died and the channel was calm, overhung by a thick heat haze. At 12:30 p. m. he was sighted from Dover and at 1:15 he had only a mile and a quarter to go. It took just an even hour, however, for the German to make the rest of the journey.

The fact that Vierkoetter trained apart from the other aspirants for channel honors is explained by the fact that this is the first year since the war that Germans have been encouraged to participate in international athletics.

William Burgess, who swam the channel in 1911 and who trained Miss Ederle, said that the speed with which five persons have swum the channel in the last three years, while only three conquered it in the preceding 35, is due to more perfect knowledge of the tidal current four miles northwest of Gris Nez. If a swimmer can catch this at the moment it starts to flow, it will carry him to South Goodwin, from which it is a short but difficult swim to shore.

Vierkoetter was piloted on the actual swim by Lieut. Ahrens, a former submarine commander who destroyed much British shipping in the channel during the war and is familiar with the currents.

MELLON CALLS ON BRIAND, REVIVING INTEREST IN DEBT

for a revision of the debts, or cancellation, it was said at the summer White House today that Mr. Coolidge believed the Washington Government had taken an attitude in the matter that would not be changed.

All the great Powers with one exception, it was added, had funded their debts to the United States, and it is apparent to Mr. Coolidge that France will adjust its debt in accordance with the agreement reached by its duly authorized representatives in negotiation with America officials.

The money, it was emphasized, will have to be paid by the American tax payers unless it is paid by the taxpayers of the countries that borrowed it.

Pat Harrison Would Bar Tourists Until France Settles Debt.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—"No American should be permitted to visit France until she settles her debt with the United States," Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi declared as he boarded the train for the Leviathan on which he sailed for the United States today. Commenting on Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker's appeal for cancellation of all war debts, he said: "There is no sentiment in America for cancellation of foreign debts. Those few who express themselves for cancellation and whose views are exploited in the European press are simply raising false hopes and delaying the inevitable economic readjustment."

WRIGHT'S WIFE SUES HIS DANCER FRIEND

Alienation of Architect's Affections Alleged in $100,000 Action in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

SPRING GREEN, Wis., Aug. 31.—Olga Milanoff, dancer accused by Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright in a $100,000 alienation suit, is living abroad, Frank Lloyd Wright said today. He added that he would join her soon. Wright, who is at Taliesin, his villa here, admitted that the dancer recently had been visiting at Taliesin, but said she had left there.

"I'm off for a year abroad on some interesting work," he said.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—A value of $5500 a month is placed by Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright on the society of her husband, Frank Lloyd Wright, noted architect. Mrs. Wright has filed suit here for $100,000 damages against Olga Milanoff, Russian dancer, charging that for 18 months she has been deprived of her home and husband due to the dancer's influence. Wright ceased to love her in December, 1924, his wife says.

The suit is her latest legal move since she was denied entry to Taliesen, Wright's villa near Spring Green, Wis., early in June. At that time, she declared that Miss Milanoff was in the house, and in the alienation suit she asserts that the dancer persuaded Wright to keep her out by false representations.

The suit charges that Wright was father of a child which she alleged was born to the dancer in Chicago, Dec. 1, 1925.

In a declaration accompanying her suit, Mrs. Wright speaks of the loss of "the comfort, fellowship, love, affection, society and assistance" of her husband, which she attributed to the dancer's "youth, feminine charm and attractions, insidious and persistent wiles and machinations."

Wright, in a statement at Spring Green, called the suit "merely another move in Madame Noel's campaign to annoy and harass me. My deepest regret is that an innocent woman must be the victim of these calumnies."

He declined to disclose the present whereabouts of Miss Milanoff, but said that his wife's suit would likely result in his cutting off the $125 a month allowance he has been giving her.

Early this year Wright sought to divorce his wife. She filed a cross bill. Negotiations for a settlement broke down when neither would yield to the demands of the other, and neither got a decree.

LONG DISTANCE PHONE RATE CUT DUE OCT. 1

Reduction Interstate Only, Calls Within Missouri Not Being Affected as Yet.

Reductions in rates on evening and night long-distance telephone calls from St. Louis and other points in Missouri to points outside the State will be made as a part of a general readjustment in such interstate rates, applying throughout the country and effective Oct. 1. The official announcement was made public here today by Percy Redmund, general manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

No Cuts Within State.

No reduction has been made on rates within the State of Missouri, but Manager Redmund said the matter would be taken up with the State Public Service Commission, and that an effort would be made to place all long-distance service on a uniform rate basis.

The evening and night period, when reduced rates are in effect, will be extended by an hour and a half. Instead of beginning at 8:30 p. m., now, the reduction period will begin at 7 p. m. Between that time and 8:30, the discount will be approximately 25 per cent of the day station-to-station rates, and from 8:30 p. m. to 4:30 a. m., about 50 per cent of the day rates. These discounts will apply only on calls to points outside the State where the day station-to-station rate is 40 cents or more, with a minimum reduced rate of 35 cents.

Midnight Rate Lowered Heretofore.

Heretofore, the lowest rate period of the 24 hours has been at midnight. Under the new regulations, the period of lowest rates will extend from 8:30 to 4:30.

"Because of the unsatisfactory service conditions which it brought about," the company says, "the existing midnight discount is discontinued, but the 8:30 discount is carried through the night. The change will make only a slight difference in the cost of calls after midnight."

As an example of the reductions, it is stated that from Jefferson City to Topeka, Kan., the basic station-to-station rate will be $1.15 instead of $1.25; to Chicago $1.75 instead of $2.20; to New York $4.45 instead of $6.25.

Economy in New Methods.

"Long-distance cables, carrier systems, vacuum tube repeaters, loading coils and other improved devices and methods resulting from continuous scientific research and development applied to the telephone industry, have effected economies on the longer circuits, and have a share in making these reductions possible," the company says. "A few rates for distances between 24 and 110 miles to points outside the State will be slightly increased to make the schedule consistent throughout, but in these cases the increase of the basic station-to-station rate will be only 5 cents."

Another change announced is the extension of the privilege of reversing charges to include station-to-station calls — whether placed during the day, evening or night—to points outside the State where the rate is 25 cents or more. In the last few years, the use of long-distance service has been increasing constantly and many situations now arise where the reversal of charges is of advantage to the customer who calls for a certain number.

FIRE IN ST. CHARLES STREET ATTRACTS SEVERAL THOUSAND

Several thousand persons were attracted to the narrow 700 block of St. Charles street during the noon hour today by a fire in the basement of the two-story brick building at 707 and 717.

The fire apparently started in rubbish, was extinguished within half an hour. Patrons of the Stack Club, a luncheon organization on the second floor, were compelled to flee, although flames did not spread beyond the basement. On the first floor are the Midwest Savings and Loan Co., the I. J. Lee Art Shop, the J. Vaughn Coffee and Spice Co., and Howard's cigar store.

RODGERS IS BURIED WITH NAVAL HONORS

Military Escort and Squadron of Planes at Ceremony in Arlington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Full military honors were arranged by the Navy Department as its farewell today to Commander John Rodgers, the last of the long line of that name who had given their lives in the service of the United States. These honors included a military escort of three companies of sailors and marines, the Navy band and a squadron of naval planes.

A year to the day after the giant seaplane PN-9-1, under his command, had risen from San Pablo Bay, Cal., in the famous flight to Hawaii, the valient airman, victim of a crash last Friday at Philadelphia while landing on a flight from Washington, was borne to h's final resting place amid the rolling hills of Arlington National Cemetery.

Private Services at Home.

In the ancestral home at Havre de Grace, Maryand, brief funeral services were held yesterday in the presence of approximately 50 friends of the dead officer or his family. Admiral John Rodgers, retired, the 78-year-old father, and his wife, who is 72, showed their keen sorrow but bore up well. A year ago they had suffered great anxiety when their son and his four companions had been missing for nine days in the Pacific after they had been in the air approximately 25 hours and lack of gasoline had forced their plane down when they were about 300 miles from Honolulu, their goal.

Capt. Curtis H. Dickins, chaplain corps, U. S. N., and Canon F. J. Bohanon of the Washington Cathedral were designated to conduct the official rites today.

Last of Famous Name.

The Navy Department selected as pallbearers Capt. George C. Westervelt, manager of the Naval Aircraft factory at Philadelphia; Commanders Holden C. Richardson and Kenneth Whiting, Bureau of Aeronautics; Commander Frederick V. McNair, Army War College; Captain Samuel M. Robinson, Bureau of Engineering; Commander Martin K. Metcalf, Naval Examining Board; Capt. Ralph Koch, Bureau of Navigation, and Capt. Stephen Rowan, Naval Operations.

The Department also arranged for the presence at the funeral of the four companions of Commander Rodgers on the Pacific flight; Lieutenant Byron J. Connell, aviation pilot S. R. Pope, Chief Radioman O. G. Stantz and William Boulin, aviation machinists' mate.

The passing of Commander Rodgers breaks a tradition that has existed ever since the United States has had a navy. There had always been a John Rodgers in the active list since the days of John Paul Jones, when the first of the line was known as "The Bold, Bald Eagle of the Seas." Commander John left no son to maintain the tradition.

DEFIES POLICE, SHOOTS 4 MEN

By the Associated Press.

HAMILTON, O., Aug. 31.—George Yerrigan, 32-year-old World War veteran, last night barricaded himself in an upstairs room of his home and challenged police to take him. In a fight that followed four persons were wounded. Yerrigan finally surrendered, after several hours, when his wife pleaded with him. Yerrigan was released recently from a hospital, where he was treated for mental disorders caused by shell shock. He armed himself with a rifle, two shotguns, three automatic pistols and hand grenades, driving his family from his home. Police tried using tear bombs, but Yerrigan donned a gas mask. Police then opened fire, and Yerrigan, in reply, wounded four youths standing in the crowd near his window. None was injured seriously.

THREATENS TO BAR PROPOSED FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC

Capt. Berry, U. S. A., Says Capt. Rene Fonck Will Not Fly to Paris Unless He Goes Too.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Capt. Rene Fonck, French ace, today faces the possibility that a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight for which he has been preparing may end in court instead of in Paris because of dissensions over personnel.

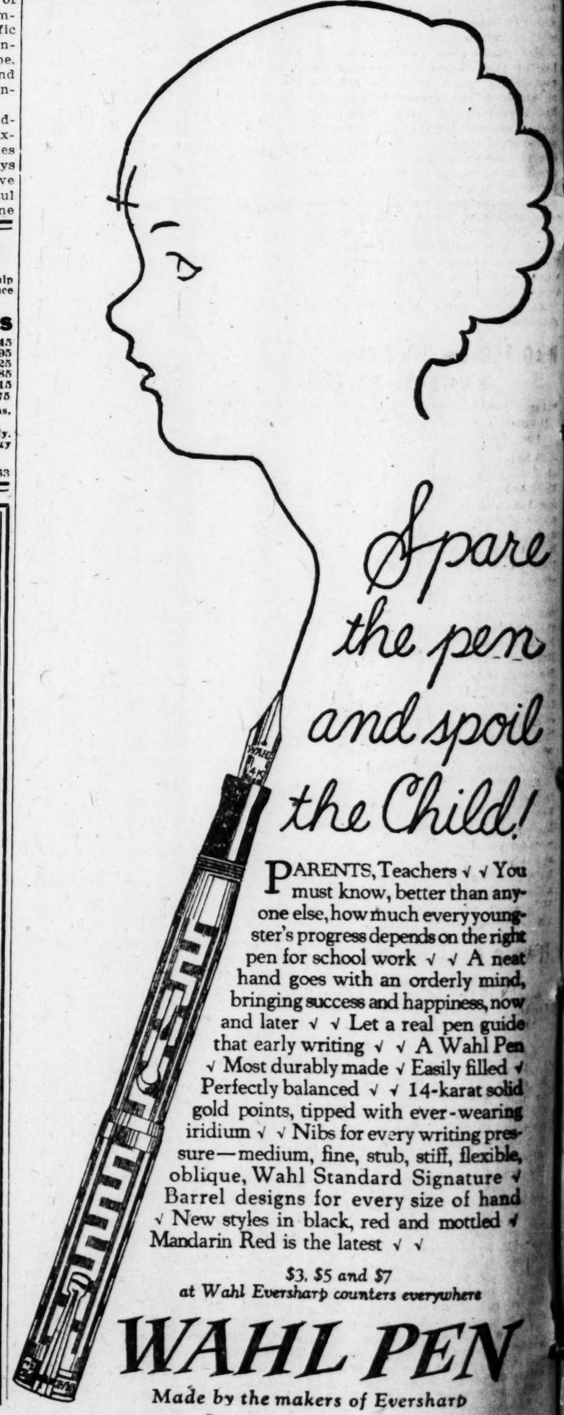

Capt. Homer M. Berry, U. S. A., holder of 10 per cent of the stock in the backing corporation, threatens to ask for an injunction to prevent the flight unless he is taken along.

Fonck has termed Berry an outsider, saying that if a third person were taken he would be a radio operator or mechanic. Lieut. Allan P. Snody, U. S. A., has second place on the ship.

Col. Harold E. Hartney, vice president of the Argonauts, Inc., the suporting company, has declared in favor of Berry in the controversy. He has terms of the contract with Fonck, who is employed at $250 a week. The contract provides that Fonck should decide to take a third man, Berry should be chosen.

The contract provides that the flight shall take place this summer, which Hartney considers will end Sept. 25. Capt. Berry holds that the contract expired yesterday, four months from the day Capt. Fonck landed. Hartney also contends that Fonck has failed to live up to his contract in that he did not provide three motors free of charge to equip the S-35 in which he was to cross the ocean. For this reason Fonck did not receive stock in the Argonauts, Inc.

Berry has been asked to state his case in writing to the other flight promoters. Fonck believes Berry would not be able to prevent the flight by litigation.

HOW 2 GUNMEN SHOT BOOTLEGGER TOLD AT INQUEST

Theodore Naus Saw One Assassin Stand Over Joseph Schambra's Body and Fire Five Times.

HOMICIDE VERDICT RETURNED BY JURY

Revolver With Empty Shells in It Found at Ninth and Wash Streets, Scene of the Murder.

One of the two men who shot down Joseph Schamora, 24-year-old bootlegger, at Ninth and Wash streets Sunday night, stood over him after he had fallen and relentlessly fired five bullets into his body, an eyewitness testified at the inquest today.

The inquest served to develop for the first time the details of the assassination. Events were described by Theodore Naus, a carpenter, of 2100 North Broadway, who explained that he was driving past Ninth and Wash at 7:35 p. m. when the shooting occurred.

"As I approached the corner I noticed a man coming down Wash street," he said. "He was in his shirt sleeves and was walking in a leisurely manner.

"As he stepped up on the curb at the southeast corner I saw two men run toward him, one of them a tall fellow and the other of medium height. It seemed to me that they ran from a store near the corner.

"One of them fired two shots. The man in shirt sleeves fell down. Then the other man, the taller one, stood over him and fired five shots into him. While he was shooting the shorter fellow ran away. With his last shot the tall man ran south in Ninth street."

A policeman told of finding a revolver with five empty cartridges near the scene of the shooting where it had been thrown by one of the slayers.

Mrs. Susie Schambra, widow, told at the inquest of hearing the shots from the home of a relative at 818½ Wash street, where she had been visiting with Schambra and their two children. She repudiated a statement made yesterday to detectives that her husband was a bootlegger, saying she could not account for such a remark.

Julius Bierman, who operates a confectionery at 828 Wash street was questioned about the possibility of the assassins having run from his store. He denied there were any men in the store prior to the shooting.

An open verdict of homicide was returned.

HELD FOR LEAVING MAN INJURED BY HIS AUTO

"Dago Pete" Took Victim Home, Promised to Return With Doctor; Prisoner Denies Charge.

When Joseph Sterling, 29 years old, of 1147A Talmadge avenue, was knocked down by an automobile Sunday night as he alighted from a Vandeventer car at Arco avenue, the driver stopped and took him home and said, "I am Dago Pete; I will go for a doctor and return."

"Dago Pete" did not return. His car is a Pontiac coupe, and with this information to begin with Probationary Patrolman Jesse D. Higgins of the Magnolia Avenue Station, last night arrested Peter Koleff, 28, at his home, 4064 Easton avenue, owner of a Pontiac coupe, who was identified by Sterling and two witnesses as the man who ran over Sterling. Koleff denied he was the man sought.

Patrolman Higgins was told there was a man called "Dago Pete" who had a candy store at Manchester and Arco avenues. A woman in charge of the store said she bought the place from Peter Koleff and gave the Easton avenue address, where Koleff was found. He was charged with careless driving and felonious flight.

Decision Rests With Brother; Pola Negri Shows "Last Message" From Star.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Plans to send the body of Rudolph Valentino to Hollywood were assuming form here today, although decision rests with a brother, Alberto Guglielmi, who arrives from Europe tomorrow.

S. George Ullman, Valentino's manager, said a special car already had been engaged for the trip. He and Mrs. Ullman and Pola Negri will accompany the body. Valentino's last thoughts were of Miss Negri, she revealed, quoting a letter from a doctor who attended her fiance.

"I am asking Miss Pickford, an old friend and patient of mine, to deliver this message to you," said a letter from Dr. Harold D. Meeker, which Miss Negri showed.

"About 4 o'clock Monday morning Valentino opened his eyes, stretched out his hands and said 'I'm afraid we won't go fishing together. Perhaps we will meet again. Who knows?'

"His mind was very clear and this was the first time he seemed to realize he would not get well. Then he said: 'Pola—if she does not come in time, tell her I think of her.'"

Miss Negri broke down after showing the letter.

Chicago Police Say Marks Indicate That Supposed Suicide May be Murder.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Edward Moore, a gambler, was questioned by police in connection with the death of Mrs. Blanche Haner, 32-year-old Seattle divorcee and former cabaret performer, whose body was dragged from Lake Michigan here yesterday. Marks on the body indicate violence, police said, although the first theory was that Mrs. Haner had killed herself.

Mrs. Haner met Moore Sunday night. "I gave her $250 early in the evening and left her," he said.

On leaving her apartment, Mrs. Haner gave Mrs. Bella Blake, a friend, $180 and jewelry she valued at $2000, saying "look after these for me." Mrs. Blake said Mrs. Haner and Moore had quarreled because he had heard her talking to another man on the telephone.

WYCKOFF SEARCH REDOUBLED

Man Wanted in Wife's Death Masqueraded as Writer.

By the Associated Press.

GLENDALE, Cal., Aug. 31.—Search by the police for J. Alvin Wycliffe, also known as J. A. Wyckoff, wanted for questioning about the death Sunday of his wife in a leap from a speeding and driverless automobile, which Wycliffe had abandoned a moment before, redoubled when investigation showed that the missing man for probably more than two years had been masquerading in Los Angeles as H. Bedford Jones of Ann Arbor, Mich., magazine writer and novelist.

Wycliffe's wife, Margaret Morgan Wycliffe, the mother of Jackie and Dorothy Morgan, child film stars, was said by police to have believed with many friends and Western agents of publishing houses, that Wycliffe was the author. He explained the many names used on manuscript offered the publisher's agents as an attempt to evade the income tax.

Thousands Flock to Children's Festival

Games for Prizes and Pantomime in Which 780 Performers Appear Features of Annual Celebration in Forest Park.

For a time this morning it began to look as if this would be a rainy day, keeping 10,000 or more St. Louis children indoors and away from the twentieth annual Municipal Playgrounds Festival in Forest Park.

But skies grew brighter after breakfast and the children began leaving their homes for the park. Some little girls and boys wore bright costumes as members of the cast of "Beauty and the Beast," a pantomime which will close the day's activities with a performance in the Municipal Theater. Others were dressed in athletic garb, and others in just ordinary summer vacation clothes.

The children went to the park on foot, on bicycles, in motorbuses, street cars and automobiles. The smaller ones were accompanied by mothers or relatives. It was a shouting scampering crowd that spread across spacious lawns of the park for a day of frolic.

Athletic Contests.

First on the program came the athletic events which were held in the cricket field not far from the golf pavilion. Boys and girls from the various city playgrounds were entered and to the playground scoring the greatest number of points a silver trophy will be awarded. Last year Buder Playground won the trophy. Running races for boys and girls at distances from 50 to 75 yards, potato races, relay races, high jump competitions, tugs of wars, horseshoe pitching contests, baseball games and even a kite-flying tournament were on the schedule. The games beginning at 10 o'clock were scheduled to last four and one-half hours.

A great many dined at noon picnic fashion.

"Beauty and the Beast" will begin with "America," sung by the 780 children of the cast. Every playground in the city contributed dancers for the pantomime. All the leading characters are girls: Dorothea Miller takes the part of Beauty; Helen Lenz is the Beast; Margaret Meyer, the father, and the bad sisters are Margaret Ellspermann and Angeline Viscard.

Between bits of business on the stage, girls from the playgrounds in varied costumes act as the chorus and perform symbolic dances.

WESTERN UNION TO STOP TELLING TIME OVER PHONE

Requests Averaged 65 Per Cent of All Calls; Hindered Other Business, Company Says.

Effective tomorrow, the Western Union Telegraph Co. will discontinue giving the correct time to telephone subscribers, in St. Louis and throughout the country.

Several thousand requests for the time have been received daily at the St. Louis offices, it was stated by Supt. G. M. Horton. Such calls averaged about 65 per cent of all telephone calls and interfered with regular business, delaying incoming telegrams that were telephoned. At the New York offices, requests for time averaged 25,000 a day.

The telephone companies discontinued giving time during the war and have not resumed. The Postal Telegraph Co. still gives the time, and Supt. H. P. Hersekorn has received no order to stop the practice although it has proved burdensome.

'FRIVOLITIES' REHEARSAL ON EXPOSITION GROUNDS STAGE

Construction Work to Be Finished By Thursday Night; Last of Booths to Be Let.

The first dress rehearsal of the "Exposition Frivolities," feature attraction of the Greater St. Louis Exposition, was held last night on the incompleted 300-foot stage in the large arena on the exposition grounds in Forest Park. The work of installing the stage and the final finishing touches on the grounds, it is expected, will be completed by Thursday night, in ample time for the opening Saturday.

Daily rehearsals at the grounds will be held until the opening by the various troups which will have part in the entertainment program. A last minute campaign was begun yesterday to dispose of the few remaining exposition booths.

FIFTH HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 31.—The arrest of John Beach, 17 years old, at Lenox, Ia., is the fifth in connection with the death of 17-year-old Pansy Turnbull of Diagonal, Ia., following a party at Clearfield, Ia., last Friday.

All five are in jail at Bedford, where the Taylor County grand jury today began an investigation of the case.

CHURCH PULLS CHAIRS FROM UNDER PASTOR

He Took Them Away, but Now Congregation Can Sit Down Again.

The Negro congregation of Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church, 2124 Franklin avenue, on July 30 received the following epistle by mail from its former pastor:

Brothers and Sisters:

I want my chairs and table. This is the third notice. Failing to comply, you stand exposed to the law, which will take place on Monday, same being Aug. 2. Yours in Christ,

REV. M. WOODSIDE.

The congregation got a good laugh out of the letter. Charlie Miller, Sam Williams and Frank Evans, trustees of the church, said their former pastor was bluffing. Nevertheless, "the law took place" as scheduled, when the Rev. Mr. Woodside obtained a writ of replevin and a Constable hauled 50 chairs and a table from the church, leaving only a Bible and a hymn-book behind.

Unwilling to stand for this, the trustees interpleaded in the replevin suit, stating the preacher had not paid for the chairs and table and therefore had no right to take them.

Woodside Doesn't Appear.

The case came before Justice of the Peace Crittenden E. Clark yesterday. Members of the congregation crowded into court, but Woodside was conspicuously absent. Mary Miller, financial secretary and wife of a trustee, was the star witness.

"Back in 1924," she testified, "my mother, my stepfather and myself were holding prayer meetings on the street. Then the people in another church got mad at the Rev. Miles Woodside and he came with us.

"Taking him for a Christian gentleman, we took up a collection and turned the money over to him. He went over to Sam Goldberg's furniture house and bought 50 chairs and one table on time for $117.50."

"How much was the first collection?" asked Justice Clark.

"Six dollars and 43 cents. The church got stronger and collections got bigger. We kept up with all the payments by taking up collections. Woodside didn't pay a cent for the furniture, except $2 that he chipped in the first collection."

Receipt Book Shown.

The time payment receipt book, issued by Sam Goldberg, was made out to the Rev. M. Woodside. Mrs. Miller explained that this was because Goldberg preferred to treat individuals rather than organizations.

"On Friday night before the third Sunday in July," the witness resumed, "Woodside resigned as our pastor. He and another preacher are now running a church around Fifteenth and Franklin. Only three or four of our members went over there with Woodside, but he's got our furniture and he's using it there."

That being the case, Justice Clark decided against Woodside, and ordered that the 50 chairs and table be returned forthwith to the Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church.

Next Sunday the congregation will sit down for services after standing for a month.

She is in City Hospital with her skull fractured, concussion of the brain and lacerations. Schmidt said his view was obstructed by a parked truck.

FRANKLIN SCHOOL ROW REMAINS UNSETTLED

Committee Rejects Board's Offer of Carfare for Pupils—May Call Mass Meeting.

"Save Franklin School" was buried under an hour-long avalanche of statistics last night by Superintendent Maddox at a conference between the instruction committee and a delegation of patrons, but the patrons are determined not to let it rest in peace.

The committee last night did not unbend from its decision to open the school, Nineteenth street and Franklin avenue, next week, as a vocational and intermediate school for the last two grades in grade school and the first one in high school. Suggestion was made, however, that three rooms not required for those grades might be retained for young children who resided north of Washington avenue, a dangerous street for them to cross, and that carfare be provided to send others to other schools where they would not have to cross heavy traffic.

"Franklin School or Nothing."

"Franklin School or nothing," was the reply of Fred Weissmann, attorney and a spokesman for the patrons. He said he did not regard the offer of carfare as a solution of the difficulty, and that many patrons of the school would regard it as an offer of alms.

"We are no nearer a settlement than we were before the conference," he said today. "The patrons' committee plans to call a mass meeting Friday night. We will outline what has been done so far and our ideas on what should be the next step. We have little time before the school term opens, but, if I recall aright, the equipment had been removed from Central High School and had to be moved back when its patrons won their fight."

Answers Objections With Map.

One of the objections of the patrons was that children in the lower grades would have to go further to other schools and cross more traffic. Supt. Maddox stated that after the distribution to other schools is made, 316 pupils will walk between a quarter-mile and a half-mile, and 235 will have less than a quarter-mile to go.

He said that while 362 children had to cross Franklin avenue to reach Franklin School last June, only 131 will need to cross it to reach their new school. To illustrate, he exhibited a map showing white children population, on which the heavy section began at the north side of Franklin, between the Franklin School and the schools where its pupils are to be distributed.

His answer to the objection that the board had built up Franklin School admirably to fit the particular needs of children of working parents, that district, and that it was supplemented by Neighborhood House, a block north, was that what was good for children in other districts was good enough for them.

The change in the schools was to convert Jefferson School, formerly a vocational intermediate school, into a school for Negro children. The superintendent showed that on the population map for white children, the dense section of black dots, showing heaviest population, stopped at boundaries of the Franklin School district, whereas on the map showing population of Negro children the condition was exactly reversed.

'SHOW UP' IN MORGUE TO CLEAR UP HOLDUPS

Wounded Youth and Girl Placed Beside Slain Companions for Victims.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—"A show-up" in the county morgue, with a wounded youth and his sweetheart beside their two slain companions in a robbery attempt, was the device by which police today hoped to clear up more than 100 other holdups.

Belief that victims might more easily identify the robbers if the four were seen together led detectives to decide on the unusual procedure.

The wounded man was Ernest De Lavergne, 25 years old, and a brother of Joseph De Lavergne, one of the two killed in attempt to rob a carn barn Sunday night. The other victim of police bullets was William Maloney, ex-convict. The girl admits that identification of herself as Frances Vaughn of Green Bay, Wis., was to keep knowledge of her predicament from her parents.

Marie Nolan is said to have been the brains of the plot to rob the car barn cashier's office of $6000, and a search for her is being made.

Another girl, whose description fits that of the Nolan girl, was arrested, but police doubt that she is Marie Nolan.

Sunday night, the quintette Ernest and Joseph De Lavergne and William Maloney, accompanied by the girls, rode to the car barns prepared for the holdup.

The men wore conductors' caps. Both girls remained in the automobile. Police previously had distributed their men in the cashier's office and also had peep holes through adjoining walls where they could fire on the robbers. While one robber lined up a number of street car men in an outer room, two others entered the cashier's office and demanded the money of the cashier.

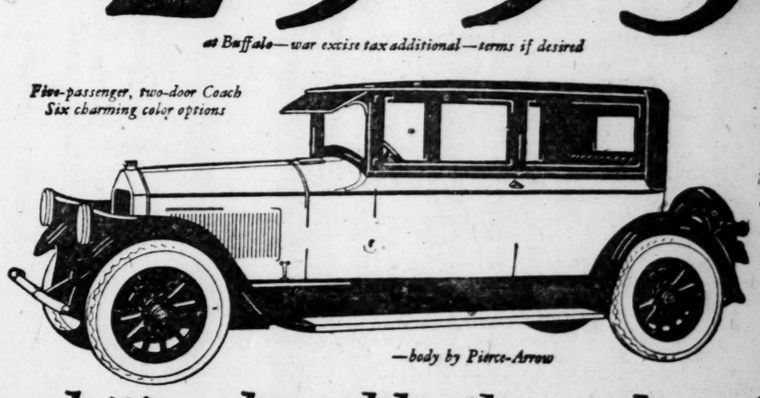

The cashier, instructed by police, dropped to safety on the floor, and a fusillade of rifle and pistol shots answered the robbers' demand for money.

STATE LEGION OPPOSES CONVENTION IN PARIS

Adopts Resolution Urging That National Meeting Be Held in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

MOBERLY, Mo., Aug. 31.—A resolution opposing the holding of the 1927 American Legion convention in Paris was adopted by the Missouri department of the legion in convention here today. The resolution urged that the convention be held within the United States.

The action was taken as a result of recent demonstrations against Americans in Paris.

With the withdrawal of Redick O'Bryon of Moberly, the field this morning had narrowed down to three candidates for the office of State commander who will be elected late today. O'Brien, who was indorsed by the local post, withdrew from the race on account of ill health, he said.

The remaining candidates are: Harry Castlen of University City; Dr. Neal William of Excelsior Springs, and Dan Nee of Springfield, with a strong possibility that Col. E. M. Stayton of Kansas City, present commander, will be proposed for re-election on the convention floor this afternoon. Up to the present all Missouri commanders have served only one term.

Hugh D. Mason of Carthage was elected grand chef de gare of the Society of Forty and Eight, succeeding Robert Turner of St. Louis, who was presented with a gold medal in appreciation of his work.

Nevada was chosen as the next convention city.

Messages were read from Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister of France, and French war organizations in which a welcome was extended to come to Paris in 1927.

40 and 8 in Sham Battle.

Nearly 1000 uniformed legionnaires participated in the parade which was a feature of the first day of the convention yesterday.

Two hundred members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and 100 Boy Scouts also participated. Music was furnished by the Grotto band of Moberly and a band and drum corps representing posts in St. Louis, Springfield, St. Joseph and Boonville.

A barbecue followed the parade, after which the Forty and Eight, directed by Robert D. Turner of St. Louis, grand chief de gare, gave a sham battle in Forest Park.

Commander's Address.

Col. Stayton, State commander, in his address yesterday, outlined the aims of the American Legion.

"No man loves peace more than the Legion man," he declared. "We have seen the horrors of war and know the price of it. We want peace.

"Nothing hurts me more than to hear of my former comrades from other countries, who fought beside me in the World War, hissing the very name of my country.

"We believe in preparedness, but not in a large standing army. We are firm advocates of the training in the citizens' camps, which are just closing, in the officers' reserve camps and other peace-time units.

"The Legion favors high standards of all kinds. We want high wages, high standards of labor, high standards of education and high standards of health. Better education is one of the steps toward peace."

Specialized, indeed—in style as well as in price—are the Frocks in this showing; Frocks that bring you the new, the smart, the distinctive, yet never the extreme. And selections are kept constantly complete, so you may select at all times a Frock in perfect taste for any occasion.

Right now there are new models in crepe and satin, and tailored Frocks of Fall woolens, in modes fashionable for misses (14, 16, 18), women (34 to 44), and special styles for larger women (42½ to 52½). (Third Floor.)

New Suede-Finish Silk Crepe, $2.85 Yd.

For the tailored mode, or the softly feminine frock for afternoon and evening—the Suede-Finish Silk Crepes, so exquisitely soft in texture, are the choice of designers of the smartest frocks for Fall. They may be plaited, draped, flared or tiered with equal success in fashioning the smartest frocks.

Colors were never more flattering than they are this Fall, especially in the deep, dull finish of this Suede-Finish Crepe. 40 inches wide.

BAKER SAYS HE CAN'T HINDER KLAN PARADE

Answers Henri Chouteau's Appeal—Nominees Address Meeting on Subject.

Gov. Baker today replied to Henri Chouteau, Republican nominee for Congress in the Eleventh District, who sent him a telegram asking him to prevent the Ku Klux Klan parade here Oct. 30.

The Governor's reply, in a brief letter, says he has no authority to interfere in such a matter, and that this is both Gov. Baker's opinion and that of Attorney-General Gentry. The Governor pointed out that the police have power to stop any gathering or parade that is not orderly.

Two candidates besides Chouteau attended the meeting called by him at the Odeon Building last night, to protest against the proposed klan parade.

The candidates, besides Chouteau, who spoke against the parade to an unofficial gathering of about 100, are Representatives Albert A. Huber and Walthall M. Moore of the Third Legislative District, who are nominees for re-election. Moore is a Negro. State Senator William E. Caulfield and Representative John G. Spelman, who are not candidates for re-election, also spoke.

Those and other speakers indorsed Chouteau's proposal to appeal to Gov. Baker to use the State's power to prevent the parade. A permit for the parade was issued last Saturday by Director Brooks of the Department of Streets and Sewers, after the City Counselor had advised him that there was no law against such a demonstration. Klan officials said some of the marchers might wear their hoods over their faces, but that probably most of them would show their faces.

One man who spoke against the purpose of the meeting, saying he could see no reason for forbidding the parade, got some applause, but most of those present signed Chouteau's appeal to the Governor. It speaks of the "parade of masked men," three days before the election, as intended to intimidate Negro voters and others from the polls and to keep

200 REPORTED DEAD IN SINKING OF RUSSIAN SHIP

Excursion Steamer With 563 Passengers Aboard Goes Down Off Mouth of Leningrad Canal.

ONLY ONE LIFEBOAT AND FEW PRESERVERS

Rescue Craft Swamped by Mob in Panic—Officer Saves Self, Lets Wife and Children Drown.

By the Associated Press.

KRONSTADT, Russia, Aug. 31.—Estimates of the loss of life in the sinking Sunday night of the steamer Burevestnik continue to grow. It is now reported that more than 200 of the 563 passengers aboard were drowned when the ship went down off the mouth of the ship canal. Earlier estimates had put the toll at 100.

Most of the victims were residents here. They were for the most part workmen and their families returning from a holiday in Leningrad. Scarcely a family on the island escaped a loss.

More than 30 bodies have been recovered from the wreck which lies in 30 feet of water.

The Burevestnik, leaving Leningrad, had just emerged from the ship canal in a thick fog when a German freighter loomed up out of the dark. To avoid the collision the Russian ship was turned sharply off her course and crashed into a stone pier, ripping a great hole in her bow. She sank in less than 15 minutes. The fog and the dark hampered the rescue work greatly. The regular captain was not on board and the first officer who was in charge saved himself while his wife and two children perished. They were in a locked cabin, the key to which the officer carried in his pocket.

Investigation shows that the Burevestnik has only one life boat and only 172 life belts for 563 passengers.

In the wild panic that ensued after the crash, many terror-struck passengers clambered frantically up the slender masts of the steamer, which collapsed under their weight. A great mob rushed for the single boat that the German freighter sent to the rescue and it sank under the numbers that jumped into it.

The Government has appointed two commissions to investigate the disaster and fix responsibility. Those found remiss will be promptly and severely punished. One commission has already reported that both captains were at fault in failing to observe the signals and regulations usually followed in the canal.

Divers are working to recover the bodies. Hawsers have been passed under the boat and only when she is raised will the exact number of the dead be known.

NO 'HELL' FOR THIS ACTRESS

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The use of a certain four-letter word, meaning an extremely hot place mentioned in the Bible, is considered indelicate by May Moore Duprez, actress. She declined to utter it at the opening of a new revue last night. She was supposed to say "You go to hell," but she merely uttered in a weak voice, "You may go wherever you like."

At this climax Miss Duprez was showered with bouquets.

Senator Duvall Bitten by Snake.

State Senator R. E. Duvall of Belleville, who returned yesterday from Kentucky, is suffering from effects of the bite of a copperhead snake. He was bitten when hunting. He did not realize the snake had wounded him until he became ill and called a physician.

LEMON JUICE WHITENS THE SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter - pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

KNOX DENIES ROW WITH WIFE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Philander C. Knox, son of the late Senator from Pennsylvania, today disputed the police report that Mrs. Knox had thrown a water glass at her husband early Sunday and cut his right arm. Knox said he slipped on the bathroom floor while he had a glass in his hand. "There is no marital trouble at all," Knox added. "If police say that there had been an altercation they are jumping to conclusions."

BOY, 15, ENDS LIFE AFTER KILLING SISTER BY ACCIDENT

Shoots Girl, 11, While Cleaning Shotgun, Then Kills Self With Same Weapon at Sidnaw, Mich.

By the Associated Press.

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 31.—Arthur Lawrence, 15 years old, shot and killed himself in a barn on his mother's farm near Sidnaw, with the same shotgun with which a moment before he had accidentally killed his 11-year-old sister, Ellnore.

Young Lawrence was cleaning the weapon yesterday, when it was discharged accidentally, killing the girl. Arthur rushed into the house, stood for a moment over the body, then went to the barn and killed himself.

LANDSDOWNE SEWER PROJECT DEFEATED

East Side Property Owners to Try to Devise Satisfactory Substitute Plan.

Court proceedings to defeat the Lansdowne sewer project, an $838,000 improvement, resulted in a victory for the objecting property owners yesterday when the petition for the assessment was withdrawn from the City Court at East St. Louis on motion of City Counselor Gustin. The hearing was to have been resumed yesterday.

L. E. Davenport, Superintendent of Special Assessments, and E. G. Barmann, representing the objectors, said that engineers representing both sides would be called into a conference in an attempt to devise a plan suitable to the city and the objecting residents of Lansdowne. An ordinance will be presented to the City Council to repeal the present unsatisfactory plan, Davenport said.

The hearing was continued from July 29 after testimony for the objectors alone had been heard to the effect that the proposed plan was inadequate, unsanitary, too costly, and that the specifications were closed owing to the description of a patent concrete pipe manufactured by only one concern.

Preliminary costs on the project have already amounted to $5000, which will be a loss unless a satisfactory plan is evolved. This is exclusive of a $5000 fee paid to a firm of engineers by the present city administration for a survey of the Lansdowne district. It was one of the contentions of the objectors that the survey was not followed in the proposed project. The project was also defeated under the last administration because of unsatisfactory plans, after $5000 had been used in preliminary expenses. The preliminary expenses on the present plan, if no agreement is reached, will exhaust the $3000 fund provided for that purpose this year.

Barmann said yesterday that the organization of objectors would be kept intact to oppose any ordinance drawn up by the Board of Public Improvements for a Lansdowne sewer not satisfactory to the residents. It is within the power of the board to submit another ordinance to the City Council for action.

Simplicity

Approved as Standard by Underwriters' Laboratories

EVERY step towards simplicity in an automatic oil burner is a step towards uninterrupted service, low cost of upkeep, and long life for the burner.

Nu-way is the simplest burner that operates under the four fundamental laws governing the perfect combustion of oil.

With few moving parts, Nu-way runs so free from vibration that a penny will stand edgewise on the mechanism indefinitely.

Simplicity means quietness. Nu-way is the quietest burner that incorporates the four necessary laws of oil burning.

Simplicity means more dependable automatic control. It means less attention. The wool packed sleeve type motor on Nu-way will run 3,000 hours—four or five heating seasons—without requiring oil. Once properly adjusted to your heating equipment, no part of a Nu-way should require much closer attention than the motor.

Nu-way Oil Burners are long lived. The first ones installed—much like the Nu-way of today—are still giving most efficient service.

Come In

Come in and see this simple burner, that will keep your home heated without labor, dust or ashes, within a healthful range of two degrees despite the weather outside. Your neighbors are going to enjoy Nu-way comfort and ease this winter. Why don't you? Phone or come in, today.

The Cheaper Fuel
Nu-way burns oil selling for 2c to 2½c less than lighter distillate recommended for other burners.

WIFE SUES HUSBAND IN PARTNERSHIP DEAL

Demands Share of Blumer Food Stores Under Unwritten Agreement.

A receiver to take over the Blumer Food Stores at 813 Locust street and 1210 Washington avenue and divide them equally between husband and wife, is asked by Mrs. Nona Blumer in a petition filed in Circuit Court yesterday.

Mrs. Blumer alleges that the two restaurants were operated by a partnership entered into by herself and her husband, Grover C. Blumer from whom she is now separated. She asserts he has usurped control of the business, has appropriated funds to his own use and has refused an accounting.

Judge Falkenhainer issued a temporary order restraining Blumer from disposing of any assets of the alleged partnership or collecting rents from an apartment at 1108 Louisville avenue, which Mrs. Blumer alleges he bought with money earned by the partnership.

Mrs. Blumer's petition asserts the business was established in 1920 and was developed by the combined efforts of herself and her husband acting under an unwritten partnership agreement. Without her consent, she charged, Blumer spent large sums for automobiles and costly equipment, insister on keeping incompetent employes, and on one occasion lent $10,000 to a druggist.

A hearing on Mrs. Blumer's petition was set for Sept. 9. The Blumers formerly lived together at the Claridge Hotel.

FARRINGTON OUSTER ENDS MINERS' ROW

Peace in Illinois District Union Expected to Follow Removal of President.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 31.—Frank Farrington has been deposed as president of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers of America. On the heels of his dismissal by the executive board, Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Peabody Coal Co. of Chicago, whose alleged employment of Farrington led to his dismissal, announced that the union leader would become labor counsel for the coal company.

The board of the district mine workers declared the president's office vacant yesterday after international President John L. Lewis had laid before it charges that Farrington had signed a contract with the Peabody Company for three years at a $25,000 a year salary.

Farrington, in the midst of a European trip, cabled from Paris a virtual admission of the charges, board officers said, and newspaper dispatches quoted him as saying that he had planned to resign the mine workers' executiveship in October, being compelled at the age of 53 by family considerations to accept an offer of employment paying five times his present salary.

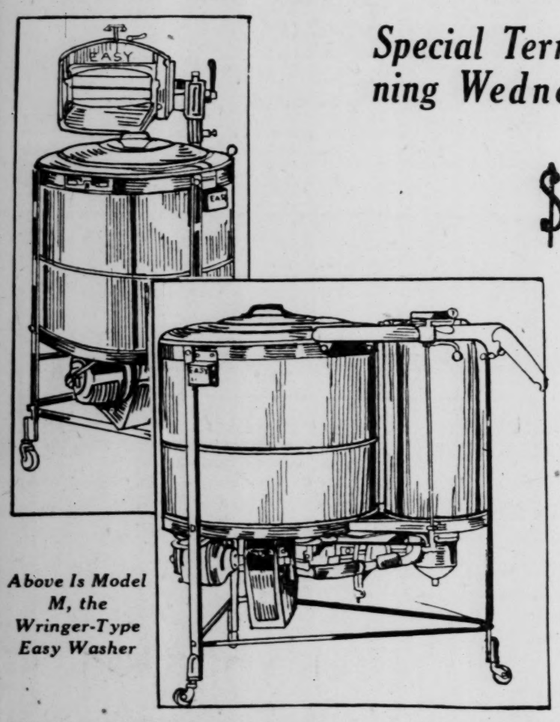

Farrington's removal as president was followed by promotion of Harry Fishwick, vice president, to the vacant post.

The disappearance of Farrington from the councils of union labor marks the end of long strife between Lewis and Farrington over questions of authority and policy. Despite Lewis' enmity, the Illinois executive board was almost unanimously for Farrington, the only opponent on the board being State Senator William J. Sneed of Herrin, who announced his candidacy several weeks ago to succeed Farrington at the December election.

The inquest will be held in East St. Louis.

PARIS, Aug 31.—France cannot pay her debts to England and the United States. She can ratify the proposed British and American settlements. She can make this gesture of loyalty to her foreign obligations. But it is economically impossible for her to meet them.

These sentences sum up what Governor Norman of the Bank of England already has heard from French economists and financiers, and what Secretary Mellon will hear from them if he seeks their point of view.

France's great apparent prosperity is illusory. It is the most amazing of all economical illusions of the world war. Consider some of its features.

The devastated agricultural and industrial area has been restored magnificently. The farmers are busy buying large quantities of farming implements. Industries are booming.

France, for the first time in centuries, is an immigration country with 3,000,000 foreign workers within her borders. There is virtually no unemployment. Shorter hours and wage conditions are comparatively satisfactory and strikes are negligible. Paris is crowded with visitors. The shops are crammed with luxury articles. The grocery stores are bulging with every imaginable variety of food.

Foreign Trade Increases.

If France were hard up, would not the fact appear in statistics of her foreign trade? Here are the figures for foreign trade:

In 1913 France imported merchandise worth 500,000,000 francs. In 1925 her imports amounted to 40,000,000,000 francs. If it is said that these are paper francs examine the weight of the imports. This weight in 1913 was 44,000,000 metric tons and in 1925 48,000,000 metric tons. Both in buying and selling France is doing decidedly more business abroad than before the war.

7200 EGGS ORDERED AT THEOSOPHIST FEAST

No Meat to Be Served at Banquet—Hindu Mystic Mingles With Crowd.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The largest vegetarian feast in Chicago's experience will take place tomorrow night when the American Theosophical Society concludes its convention with a banquet. The nearest approach to meat will be the 7200 eggs that have been ordered for the occasion.

Nearly all Theosophists are vegetarians and pecial vegetarian menus have made their appearance in cafes and restaurants patronized by the visitors. A dinner eaten yesterday by Mrs. Annie Besant, international president of the society, and her protege, Jiddu Krishnamurti, the "New World Teacher," consisted of vegetable soup, fried egg plant, peas, carrots, tomatoes, brussels sprouts, string beans and combination salad.

Krishnamurti mingled yesterday with Chicago's multitude. He made his first public talk in America to the Adman's Post of the American Legion. He urged a better understanding between the East and the West.

He took a walk through Chicago's busy streets and found them "almost as bad as New York's for crowds and noise."

He attended the two sessions of the American Theosophical convention, and he rose in one session to sing in a clear voice a hymn of India.

That the Chicago gathering is bringing Theosophy to "the threshold of important events—notably, the expected coming of the Great Teacher," was stated in the report of L. W. Rogers, president of the American Society.

Rogers placed the present active membership at 7511, with 274 lodges. The cornerstone of the society's national headquarters was laid at Wheaton, Ill., a suburb, Sunday, and when the structure is completed, the Theosophists will establish a lecture branch, a training school for workers, and a summer school in Theosophy. A correspondence school in Theosophy has just completed its third year.

Plans for the establishment of the first school of Theosophy for children are in process of crystallization. Hollywood has been chosen as the site for this institute. The American headquarters of the Order of the Star in the East, founded in 1911 by Mrs. Besant, is in France, for the first time in centuries, is an immigration country. With 3,000,000 foreign workers within her borders. There is virtually no unemployment. Shorter hours and wage conditions are comparatively satisfactory and strikes are negligible. Paris is crowded with visitors. The shops are crammed with luxury articles. Foreign Trade Increases.

If France were hard up, would not the fact appear in statistics of her foreign trade? Here are the figures for foreign trade:

This weight in 1913 was 44,000,000 metric tons and in 1925 48,000,000 metric tons. Both in buying and selling France is doing decidedly more business abroad than before the war.

France's domestic trade statistics reflect similar activity. She is surpassing her pre war production. Of iron and steel she produced in 1913, 7,000,000 metric tons. This year she is producing pig iron at the rate of more than 9,000,000 metric tons a year. France had in 1913 about 7,500,000 cotton spindles and has today nearly 11,000,000 in the same period. Her wool spindles have increased from less than 2,000,000 to nearly 3,000,000. French competition in cotton and wool is causing concern to the best established British textile manufactories.

As for French agriculture, which directly sustains almost half the population it supports, now the highest standard of living in its history

Fallit. Franc Deadly.

Nevertheless, manufacturers, financiers and business men see that capital is shrinking with the franc and that consequently the life blood of industry is drying up.

People with fixed incomes from bonds or investments are becoming impoverished. Salaries have lost their purchasing power. There have been attempts at salary readjustments but these could not keep pace with the sinking franc. How fixed incomes are suffering is illustrated thus. He who had 100,000 francs or about $20,000 before the war, now has only about $3000. He could live comfortably on his investments before the franc fell, but he cannot live on them at all today.

Inflation, say economists, has caused all the trouble. It arose out of the expectation that Germany could be made to pay for the war. It is now obvious how wild was that dream.

It would not be surprising if out of France's battling fiscal complications, sprang a proposal that France would agree to forego German reparations on a basis of all-around debt cancellation. In other words, France would much prefer that Germany should be relieved of the Dawes plan than that the fruits of the plan should be absorbed by France's creditors—creditors to whom France does not deem herself morally in debt in a financial way.

COOLIDGE TO HEAR K. OF C. LEADER ON MEXICAN TROUBLE

Appointment Made for Tomorrow, Following Supreme Knight Flaherty's Conference With Kellogg

GLOWING REPORT ON BUSINESS IS GIVEN

Rail Director Tells President Prosperity Is General; Asks Consolidations Not Be Hampered by Laws.

By the Associated Press.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Aug. 31.—James A. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, will be received by President Coolidge tomorrow for a discussion of the resolution of the order calling for American intervention in Mexico to protect Catholic churchmen in their religious dispute with President Calles.

The appointment was made at the request of Flaherty after he had conferred on the subject with Secretary Kellogg of the State Department at Washington.

The results of the Washington discussions have not been made public, but it was made clear at the Summer White House at the time that if Flaherty desired to see Mr Coolidge after the meeting with Kellogg, he would be given an appointment.

The policy of the Washington Government toward Mexico has been made clear as one of "hands off," unless American citizens are injured in person or property.

Will Hays, head of the motion picture industry, and officials of Franklin County were among the callers on President Coolidge's program today. Hays was invited to luncheon.

The advisability of providing space in the new Government archives building that is to be erected in Washington for motion picture films of historic events, was discussed with President Coolidge today by Hayes. The President's views were not indicated.

Need Emphasized by Hays.

The need for storing such films under complete safety conditions with Government supervision was emphasized by Hays, who remarked upon their importance to posterity.

The films that would be placed under Government protection go back to the time when Theodore Roosevelt was activee in public life and include many of the World War, pictuiring such scenes as the signing of the peace treaty at Versailles and the return of Gen. Pershing. There were also many of presidential inaugurations.

The officials of the county in which White Pine Camp is located desired o na their respects to Mr. Coolidge before the end of his Adirondack vacation.

Mrs. Elmira Goodhue of Northamption, Mass., mother of Mrs. Coolidge, also was expected for an indefinite visit. Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, guests for several weeks, planned to leave today.

General Prosperity Reported.

A report of general prosperity throughout the country was brought yesterday by Matthew C. Brush of New York City, president of the American International Corporation. Brush, who is a director of several railroads, advocated a policy of noninterference with the railways, and expressed opposition to consolidation of systems by legislation. Left to themselves, he said, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroad executives could effect economically sound consolidation.

Speaking particularly of the Southwest, which he recently visited, Brush said that section was decidedly prosperous, with agriculture, oil and the railroads enjoying a boom.

After Brush's departure, President Coolidge collected his fishing tackle and motored 25 miles in quest of trout. He picked a new spot on the lake for the last day of the open season, driving to the preserve of Leroy Frost of New York City, where he got a good catch.

'No Fly in Picture.'

Speaking of both political and business conditions in the Southwest Brush said he saw "no fly in the picture."

The great majority of the people of that section who are instrumental in sending men to Congress, he declared, are determined to send constructive men to Washington and will send no one who is intent upon tearing down prosperity.

The railroads of the Southwest, he continued, were never better managed and are putting back into the properties tremendous earnings, intelligently, wisely and economically.

If the attitude of "co-operation" of Congress and the Interstate Commerce Commission continues, he predicted, tremendous systems will be developed there vital to prosperity.

The Presidential Nose

This caricature of President Coolidge is one of seven made at the rate of one a minute by Conrado W. Massaguer, a Cuban, in a brief call on the President. The World's Work, which publishes the cartoon, quotes the President as selecting this one "because my nose is just like you have made it. It has been caricatured often, but this is the best record of it so far."

IMPROVEMENTS IN EMPLOYMENT NOTED

Review of Business in Eighth Federal Reserve District Issued.

Improvement in employment conditions is noted in the monthly review of business conditions in the Eighth Federal Reserve District, released today

"July witnessed improvement in employment conditions generally through the district," the report states. "In the building industry both skilled and common labor is well employed, with wages at the peak levels of earlier in the year.

"Demand for hands in the harvest fields was heavy, and road building, river improvement work and construction activities of municipalities and public service corporations have made heavy inroads upon the supply of unskilled laborers. Shoe factories and textile mills increased their forces, and gains were reported by cement, glass, and clay products plants."

Improvement in Coal Fields.

Moderate improvement in Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky coal mining fields is noted. Dealers are purchasing more coal, and householders are beginning to lay in supplies. Augmented by large coal, wheat, fruit and vegetable movements, railroad car loadings continue to establish new high records.

Commercial failures in the Eighth District during July, according to Dun's totaled 59, involving liabilities of $1,124,720, against 81 defaults in June with liabilities of $882,180 and 60 failures for $940,025 in July, 192

The per cantia circulation of the United States on Aug 1 was $42 against $41.85 on July 1, and $41.31 on Aug. 1, 1925.

"General business in this district during the past 30 days has been on the whole satisfactory," says the review.

Composite Condition of Crops.

"In spite of the extremely high temperatures which prevailed in late July and early August, there was less than the usual curtailment at industrial plants. Prospects of certain crops, notably corn and hay, were lowered somewhat by the lack of rainfall and hot weather, but the composite condition of all crops in states wholly or partly within this district on Aug 1 was 95.3 per cent, a loss of only 0.8 per cent from the July 1 condition, and comparing with 100.2 on Aug. 1, 1925.

"Winter wheat turned out much above expectations in quantity and quality was the highest in many years. Harvesting of this cereal was conducted under ideal conditions, and the crop is being rapidly moved and marketed. Prospects for cotton are good, and the same is true of tobacco, rice, certain fruits and other important agricultural products of the district.

"While the hot weather was determined to certain phases of agriculture, it had a distinctly stimulating effect on sales of summer merchandise, particularly through retail channels. Some classes of goods notably apparel, sporting goods and tourists suplies, which had lagged earlier in the year, were reported moving in heavy volume. Wholesalers reported a fair volume of recorders of hot weather merchandise, which they were not in all instances able to fill.

"As indicated by debits to individual accounts, spending generally in the district during July was greater than during the same month last year. Sales of mail order houses, and chain department stores recorded further increases during July, but their gains were in numerous cases at the expense of small retailers, whose business was not as good as heretofore.

"Considerably less than the usual seasonal decrease in activities at the iron and steel plants was in evidence. Losses of time at the steel mills, foundries and machine shops were confined principally to suspensions due to high temperatures as a majority of these industries had orders sufficient to maintain their operations had weather conditions permitted.

"There was a decrease in production and distribution of automobiles, but sales and production in the shoe industry showed sharp gains over both the preceding month and the corresponding period last year. Flour mills increased their operations, and gains were reported by meat packing plants, beverage manufacturers and distributers of drugs and chemicals. As compared with a year ago, sales of wholesalers of dry goods, groceries, electrical supplies and furniture showed decreases."

7200 EGGS ORDERED AT THEOSOPHIST FEAST

No Meat to Be Served at Banquet—Hindu Mystic Mingles With Crowd.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The largest vegetarian feast in Chicago's experience will take place tomorrow night when the American Theosophical Society concludes its convention with a banquet. The nearest approach to meat will be the 7200 eggs that have been ordered for the occasion.

Nearly all Theosophists are vegetarians and pecial vegetarian menus have made their appearance in cafes and restaurants patronized by the visitors. A dinner eaten yesterday by Mrs. Annie Besant, international president of the society, and her protege, Jiddu Krishnamurti, the "New World Teacher," consisted of vegetable soup, fried egg plant, peas, carrots, tomatoes, brussels sprouts, string beans and combination salad.

Krishnamurti mingled yesterday with Chicago's multitude. He made his first public talk in America to the Adman's Post of the American Legion. He urged a better understanding between the East and the West.

He took a walk through Chicago's busy streets and found them "almost as bad as New York's for crowds and noise."

He attended the two sessions of the American Theosophical convention, and he rose in one session to sing in a clear voice a hymn of India.

That the Chicago gathering is bringing Theosophy to "the threshold of important events—notably, the expected coming of the Great Teacher," was stated in the report of L. W. Rogers, president of the American Society.

Rogers placed the present active membership at 7511, with 274 lodges. The cornerstone of the society's national headquarters was laid at Wheaton, Ill., a suburb. Sunday, and when the structure is completed, the Theosophists will establish a lecture branch, a training school for workers, and a summer school in Theosophy. A correspondence school in Theosophy has just completed its third year.

Plans for the establishment of the first school of Theosophy for children are in process of crystallization. Hollywood has been chosen as the site for this institute. The American headquarters of the Order of the Star in the East, founded in 1911 by Mrs. Besant, is in California, and will be visited by Krishnamurti at the conclusion of the Chicago convention.

Mrs. Besant's message to the gathering was given at the first formal meeting yesterday. Because of her wealth, her unique geographical position, her limitless resources, this country "must realize that her's is the responsibility of leading the world at this time in perfecting a great republic of brotherhood and of peace," she said.

TURBULENT LABOR MEMBER SUSPENDED BY PARLIAMENT

Jack Jones, Miner, Shouts "He Lies!" During Speech by Joynson-Hicks.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The special two-day session of Parliament, called to pass the emergency measures demanded by Home Secretary Joynson-Hicks for dealing with the coal strike, began yesterday in a bitter row. Jack Jones, turbulent Laborite, himself a miner, was ordered from the House by the Speaker. He refused to go, so parliament took the unusual step of suspending him.

Joynson-Hicks explained why he wanted emgency powers. While he was defending police for protecting strikebreakers, Jones shouted, "He lies!" Joynson-Hicks then mentioned the number of strikers convicted for disorderly picketing and Jones called out, "The Duke of Northumberland (one of England's great coal land owners) wasn't one of them."

The Speaker then called on Jones to subside while the Tory and Labor members yelled at each other. Jones started retreating down a side aisle, shouting, "You're a contemptible lot of cowards."

The House finally by a vote of 332 to 91 adopted the Government measure continuing the emergency regulations for another month.

CHICAGO TO ENFORCE CURFEW OF ALL CHILDREN UNDER 16

Must Keep Off Streets if Not Accompanied; Fines for Parents.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Resurrecting a three-year-old curfew ordinance, Chief of Police Collins ordered police today to arrest all children under 16 found on the streets between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., unaccompanied by parents.

Parents of such children will be subject to fine, and the children, after the second offense, will be dealt with as juvenile delinquents.

The action follows recent attacks on young women in and near Chicago. County highways have been closed to girls under 16 at night.

JACKSON COUNTY DEMOCRATS FAVOR REED FOR PRESIDENT

Adopt Resolution Pledging Support for Nomination in 1928 for Missouri Senator.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 31.—The Democratic Committee of the Fifth Congressional District (Jackson County, including Kansas City), meeting at Independence today, adopted a resolution pledging support to United States Senator James A. Reed as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

"We pledge the enthusiastic and loyal support of the Democracy of Jackson County to the movement which is steadily growing throughout the nation for the nomination of Senator Reed for President," said the resolution. "With him in the White House that genuine Americanism which he typifies will have a new birth and a new meaning."

The Senator's service as chairman of the Senate committee investigating election expenditures was recognized through this reference in the resolution: "He has a horror of corruption in whatever guise it may appear, whether in the giving of bribes or in the buying of elections."

Senator Reed's home is in Kansas City.

ANTI-ANNEXATION FORCES TURN FIRE ON POLICE SYSTEM

Assert County Is Much Better Protected Now Than It Could Be as Part of City.

PLEADS EXPENSE AS BURDENSOME

Meeting Called for Thursday in Clayton to Combat Propaganda Against Proposed Union.

St. Louis could not give the county proper police protection if the city should annex the county, it was declared yesterday in a statement mailed to voters by the Committee Opposed to Annexation.

The annexation proposition comes up before the voters Oct. 26 in separate elections for the county and city. Majorities are necessary both in St. Louis and in the county to pass the measure. The statement of the Committee Opposed to Annexation follows:

"Experts have estimated that to install police call boxes and fire alarm boxes in the county will cost more than $1,250,000. At the same time the head of the fire alarm call system in the City of St. Louis resigns his position with the announcement that the city has refused him sufficient funds to maintain the system, that it is deteriorating, that it is fast becoming obsolete and worthless. Certainly, if the City of St. Louis cannot find funds to keep its own system in repair, how can it find funds to enlarge the system and maintain it?

Praises Policing of County.

"In the incorporated cities and towns of the county the efficiency of the police service has met with the approval of the residents. The citizens of these towns are in charge of the police, can remove them quickly should they fail to give the citizen an adequate degree of protection. There is not a city in St. Louis County today which does not have better police protection than could be furnished by the city police force to an outlying district. In the City of St. Louis the Police Department is State controlled. St Louis City has long sought local control, but has failed. Local control of peace officers is desirable from every standpoint St. Louis County and its cities now have such control. St. Louis City does not.

"There is not an incorporated community in the county that suffers from police neglect such as scores of neighborhood in the city of St. Louis. This is borne out by the fact that questionable places do not exist in these communities. There are scores of St. Louisans who will tell you of appeals they have made to police to rid neighborhoods of obnoxious enterprises, and who can prove that even if such action was taken it was many days before police machinery got into motion.

"We enact our police laws and restrictions to suit the communities in which we live. If annexed we lose all these powers and have no control over our local police laws and regulations.

Expense Inveighed Against.

"The police system of the various incorporated towns in the county are augmented by Deputy Sheriffs and by deputies of the Constables of the various townships. The efficient police service enjoyed by the incorporated communities can be extended to any section of the county if the residents of those sections so desire.

"Additional policing means additional expenditures, means an increase in taxes. St. Louis City must obtain funds to pay additional policemen and these funds must come from the purses of the residents of the county in the event of annexation.

"And with the treasury of the city of St. Louis about empty, the funds raised from taxation in the county first will be used to meet the present current debts of the city of St. Louis and to wipe out the present deficit."

While the antiannexationists beginning their fight on the measure by mail, the forces favoring annexation are preparing a counter offensive. A meeting of those who favor the measure will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Clayton courthouse to formulate plans for a campaign. The meeting was called by Joseph Forshaw, who has been active in pushing the annexation project.

Text of Reed's Letter On State Dry Law Repeal

FOLLOWING is the text of the letter of Senator Reed of Missouri, in which he opposes the initiative proposal to repeal the State dry law, and also gives his reasons for opposing prohibition.)

You may be surprised to learn that I am in accord with your opposition to Proposition No. 4, although for quite different reasons than those which you advance.

You are understood to be an extremely "dry." You believe in regulating the habits of the people by law. You would force them to abstain by penalties of fine and imprisonment.

Upon the other hand, I have been characterized as a "wet." If by that term is meant one who favors turning back upon the country an unlimited flood of liquor, of allowing its sale without regulation or restraint, then no one has the right to call me a "wet." Singularly enough we are both aiming at much the same object, viz.: we both want this to be a sober nation. We differ in methods and perhaps in degree.

You believe in compulsion. You would punish by fine or prison all who buy a drink, and this regardless of the character or motives of either the purchaser or seller. You propose to make people good by statute; to regulate personal conduct by law. And you indiscriminately group together the prudent and the imprudent, the vicious and the good; the wise and the fools. You assume that all men who have made or sold liquor are criminals, and that all who buy or use liquor in any degree are injured, if not damned. And this policy of force you persist in, apparently regardless of the patent fact that prohibition has promoted drunkenness and multiplied crime.

Limit to Right of State.

I hold a different theory. I believe that the State has no right to interfere with the personal habits of men so long as they so conduct themselves as not to injure others; that man has the natural right to regulate his food and drink, to clothe and house himself as he sees fit without interference by any law-making body, so long as he does not interfere with others or offend against the rules of decency (which in itself is an offense against the rights of others).

The elevation of the standards of living must depend upon the intellectual development of the race, the inculcation of the principles of morals and the precepts of religion. In the process of this development, that which is gross, beastly and injurious is inevitably lessened and will in the end be eliminated. But you cannot make saints by statute. Every such attempt has resulted in failure. You cannot christianize the world by fire and sword—that must be accomplished by precept and example.

If force were attempted, the Mohammedan and Buddhist races would remain pagan forever. If we were, by armed force, to undertake to make the nations of the world accept our form of government, we would not only commit the indescribable crime against human liberty, but we would cause all races of men to rally to the support of their chosen form of government.

Likewise, you cannot make a people abandon a natural right, or that which they regard as a natural right, by forbidding its exercise. What you can do, and what you have succeeded in doing is to arouse their antagonism and transform millions of them into deliberate law breakers.

'I agree with you that drunkenness is beastly and that temperance is desirable. I disagree with your creed that prohibition by law is the remedy.

Sound Middle Course.

There is a sound middle course. The liquor business should be strictly regulated, not outlawed. Temperance and sobriety should be taught—not forced. Forced prohibition is as bad as unrestricted liquor traffic.

I am against both propositions, and hence I am against the repeal of all restrictive legislation, just as I am against the unnatural and extreme prohibitory laws which deface our statute books, and have flooded the country with poisoned liquor, turned tens of thousands of homes into private distilleries and home brew plants, filled our jails and penitentiaries, infested the land with spies and sneaks whose very presence is an affront to the spirit of the republic, and worse than all else, have promoted the drug habit to an alarming degree.

'So I agree with you that all restrictive laws should not be wiped out in Missouri. At the same time I hope yourself and your conferees will soon come to the conclusion that temperance in drinking can best be promoted by temperance in thinking.

The liquor traffic should be strictly regulated. The bootlegger should be driven out of business, the illicit distillery and home-brew plant abolished. This can only be accomplished by providing a strictly controlled, legitimate source of supply, and by teaching the principles of true temperance and universal sobriety. Otherwise, we will perpetuate the curse of the bootlegger and the calamity of general low violation.

REED OPPOSES MEASURE TO KILL STATE DRY LAW

In Letter to W. C. T. U. President He Goes on Record Against Initiative Proposition No. 4.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, in a letter to Mrs. Nelle G. Burger, president of the Missouri W. C. T. U., expressed opposition to the initiative measure which provides for the repeal of the State dry law, but also expressed opposition to prohibition.

"Temperance and sobriety should be taught—not forced," the Senator said in his letter. "Forced prohibition is as bad as uncontrolled liquor traffic. I agree with you that drunkenness is beastly and that temperance is desirable, but I disagree with your creed that prohibition by law is the remedy."

Referring to "proposition No. 4, which in general provides for the repeal of all State restrictive liquor legislation," Senator Reed wrote:

"You may be surprised to learn I am in accord with your opposition to 'proposition No. 4,' although for quite different reasons than those which you advocate."

Mrs. Burger Denied She Wrote to Reed.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Nelle G. Burger, State president of the W. C. T. U., denied last night that she sent a letter to Senator Reed urging his support in opposing the proposal to repeal the Missouri prohibition law.

"I did not send such a letter to Senator Reed and I have not seen his reply, so I have no statement to make," Mrs. Burger said. A dispatch from Kansas City said Reed's letter was in reply to one from Mrs. Burger.

Drastic Provisions of State Dry Law.

The state prohibition law as amended in 1922, provides a two-year penitentiary penalty for any one who brews or distills intoxicating liquor for sale.

For a person who owns equipment for the brewing or distilling of liquor but does not use it, the penalty is a fine up to $1000, or 30 days to a year in jail.

The law makes it a felony to transport liquor in a vehicle belonging to another.

The sale or giving away of liquor which causes death, blindness, paralysis or insanity, is made a felony, punishable by two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary or by one year in jail and a $1000 fine.

Another section of the law provides that any person who shall manufacture, brew, distill, sell, give away or transport any "hooch," "moonshine" or "corn whisky," shall be imprisoned for two to five years in the penitentiary; or be locked in jail for three to 12 months; or fined $500; or both fined and locked in jail.

League Is Neutral in Senate Fight.

The Missouri Anti-Saloon League will keep its hands off the campaign for United States Senator, unless one of the senatorial candidates indorses Proposition No. 4, for the repeal of the State prohibition law, which is to be voted upon at the November election. This was announced by the Rev. Parker Shields, state superintendent of the league, following his return from Florida, and a conference with members of the Headquarters Committee of the league.

Neither Harry B. Hawes, Democratic nominee, nor Senator George H. Williams, Republican nominee, for the Senate, has taken a public stand on Proposition No. 4.

The Anti-Saloon League, Supt. Shields said, will "do everything possible to defeat the unpatriotic and vicious effort of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment to nullify the Eighteenth Amendment, so far as Missouri is concerned."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Proposition No. 4.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

APROPOS the controversy now raging over the proposed repeal of the Missouri prohibition laws, and the efforts of certain well-meaning gentlemen, led by Mr. Charles M. Hay and Mrs. Nellie Burger, to make it appear that Proposition No. 4 is an attempt to "nullify" the Constitution of the United States and turn Missouri over to the lawless element, I wish to recall some observations of the Post-Dispatch made on July 24, 1924.

At that time Judge H. S. Priest was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor and a correspondent wrote to inquire how his nomination and election could affect the prohibition question. In a leading editorial the Post-Dispatch said, among other things:

"Judge Priest is able to answer the question better than we. He is thoroughly equipped to deal with the question of the powers and functions of the State and the Governor. In fact, he answers it, in part at least, by calling attention to the outrageous law now in the State statutes modeled on, but exceeding in drastic tyranny, the Volstead Act. The law deals with prohibition and is intended to equip the State with ample power, more power than the Constitution confers, to co-operate with the Federal Government in controlling the personal conduct and the conscience and judgment of citizens. AS GOVERNOR, JUDGE PRIEST COULD HELP TO REPEAL THAT LAW."

My contention is that the "outrageous" State dry law referred to in the above editorial is the one that is now sought to be repealed by direct action of the people. The only difference between the conditions prvailing on July 24, 1924, and now is that the law is more generally violated with each passing day, but notwithstanding that there are scores of Missouri citizens now languishing in jails or the State penitentiary for violations of this unjust and un-American law.

Mr. Hay and Mrs. Burger have a perfect right to oppose the adoption of Proposition No. 4, but when they shout "Nullification" they are making themselves absurd. The Kansas City Star, one of their strongest champions, has already seen the error of this course, and has pointed out that the word "nullification" as used in the famous South Carolina attempt to defy the United States has no place in the Missouri dry law referendum, to be voted upon Nov. 2. All that is proposed is for the people of the State, exercising a constitutional right, repeal an obnoxious and ineffective law, leaving the national Government to follow suit or enforce its own laws. T. R. J.

British Beer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"FOOD for thought: The British Government in a year derives $700,000,000 from liquor taxes, most of it from the tax on beer."—Post-Dispatch.

Just so. If you knew England as well as I do you'd have another think coming. How much of that tax goes back in the form of charity and poor relief?

The drink bill of England is bigger than its national debt. The beer swigger is always just one step from the poorhouse; besides, he is a stupid fellow and cannot compare with the more alert and sober American. Better read Booth's "Darkest England." JOHN BULL.

An American Protest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Agoga Alumnae Class of the Maplewood Baptist Church protests against the publication in your paper of articles concerning prohibition in various states.

We believe that by the publication of these articles you support a class that has always fought for liberty of speech, press and, let me add for the benefit of this Baptist congregation, toleration of all religions. We believe that were it not for the liberals, who maintain that a man should not suppress personal rights of others, Baptists would not now exist.

We believe, too, that Christianity sanctions personal rights. Christ drank wine at the last supper, and recently the Pope praised a sample of D'Annunzio's wine. When leaders of the church are broad-minded enough to permit the drink of "th Father of our Country," let lesser minds follow the example of toleration.

We believe that the Post-Dispatch is a tremendous success because its readers agree with its policies. Therefore, no tears need be shed over the drys who showed their weak strength in the recent St. Louis primaries. THE EAGLE.

Proposed K. K. K. Parade.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

TO be charitable, let us assume that the granting of a permit to the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan to parade in St. Louis, Oct. 30, is another bonehead play of the Miller administration and not a sign of affiliation on the part of Vic Miller or any of his appointees. The permission granted these masquerading intolerants means placing St. Louis in the same class with Herrin, Ill. The Klu Klux Klan must not be permitted to desecrate the Stars and Stripes in St. Louis.
JOHN C. MEYERS.

YE SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH.

The Post-Dispatch on Monday printed a letter from the Agoga Alumnae Class of the Maplewood Baptist Church, protesting our publication of articles concerning prohibition in various states.

The publication of such articles, the letter complains, "supports the saloon and its loafers," revives the quarrel between state sovereignty and national sovereignty, settled by the Civil War, and "induces criminal carelessness."

We are not exactly sure what articles this protest condemns. Recently the Post-Dispatch published a series on conditions in those Western states which are supposed to constitute the very backbone of prohibition. This series showed these states to be sopping wet. The Post-Dispatch also published a series of reports on liquor legislation, prohibitive and regulative, in a number of countries. Those reports were prepared by trained and sincere observers who were concerned with getting the facts. Some of those investigators were convinced that prohibition had failed and that regulation was a success. Others dissented from that view and declared that prohibition, whatever its faults, was superior to regulation.

Are those the articles to which the Maplewood letter objects?

Or is the remonstrance against the testimony in the Senate inquiry, in which earnest officials like United States District Attorney Buckner of New York related the difficulties and estimated the cost of enforcing prohibition in that State; or that of Gen. Andrews himself, who reluctantly conceded, under cross-examination, that a liberalization of the Volstead law to permit the sale of beer would make enforcement easier?

Or does this protest refer to the daily story written by prohibition—its sinister corruption, its terrifying lawlessness, its murders and its graft—that pours into the day's news from every state?

The writers of this letter, obviously, do not want the facts of prohibition published; they want them suppressed. They are proposing a censorship, not merely of the Post-Dispatch, but of the entire press. They go even further than that. They link prohibition and religion in this threat with which they conclude their statement: "We pledge our efforts to prevent patronizing of a paper which will not uphold Christianity and all that it stands for in all fields of endeavor."

That is a bold utterance. It may be good prohibition doctrine, but it is not American doctrine nor Christian doctrine.

It was written long ago: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." If prohibition cannot meet that test it cannot survive.

TRUE AMATEURISM.

It's a topsy-turvy world. Amateurs are going professional, and professionals are going amateur. Suzanne Lenglen has surrendered to the siren call of Mr. Cold Cash Pyle. There are rumors that Tilden, Richards and other semi-amateurs are about to go whole hog. Even the simon-pure Little Bill Johnston is harkening to the golden clink. But here in St. Louis we have a remarkable example of a group of professionals refusing to accept their wages. This is amateurism, or love of the game, in its best aspect. We refer to the principals in Guy Golterman's production of "Carmen," who, to prevent a threatened deficit, have refused to accept their salaries for the six-night stand. We guarantee that this act on their part will not endanger their professional standing.

We never thought Georges (Tiger) Clemenceau would degenerate into a letter writer.

IS THE TORY A RADICAL?

No doubt, as Paul Y. Anderson sets out in a dispatch from London, the British Government is more liberal than ours. The things that Lloyd George and Ramsay MacDonald stand for would be regarded with horror in the United States, though neither, as Prime Minister, overturned the established order. Even the Conservative Government now in power would scorn to be as narrow and as petty as our Government has shown itself on many recent occasions. As any dignified Government should do, it ignores the fiery revolutionaries who hold forth from soap boxes in Hyde Park. It refuses to examine the views and the private morals of those who seek admission to England. It has a higher regard than our State Department for free speech and the rights of man.

Nevertheless, the British Conservative is far from radical, and the presence of social legislation in Great Britain does not prove him so. It may be true that Winston Churchill, a "hard-boiled" Tory, is the author of an old-age pension system. So was Kaiser Wilhelm in the palmy days of Junkerdom. It may be that the Conservative Government, acting in response to the pressure of the socialistic Labor opposition, now engages in such things as insurance of workers against illness, accident and unemployment, and the building of homes for working people.

Conceivably, even without the influence of the Labor party, the Conservatives might dabble in this type of legislation. The great Caesar gave 'em bread and circuses. Doesn't the unemployment dole come under the same head? Doesn't a certain amount of state socialism act like an opiate on the people? Certainly it did in imperial Rome and in imperial Germany. We do not think that anything which kills political initiative and individual self-reliance could be termed radical in the political sense.

What we call radical is the idea Lloyd George has got hold of. He has espoused a program of land reform which proposes to make the landed classes cough up all the unearned increment which has accumulated through appreciation in the value of their land, the money to be used for good roads and the general welfare. Now, that's what we call radical. But do you see the Conservative Government headed by Stanley Baldwin and supported by all the great landed gentry warming up to such an idea? Not by a jugful. Socialism to a certain degree, yes. But a large no to anything which disturbs the old, established order.

CIVILIZATION?

Grade crossings killed 859 persons and maimed 2606 during the first five months of 1926. In each case there was a substantial increase over the figures for the corresponding months of last year.

These are appalling statistics. Until the grade-crossing menace is ended it is idle to talk about this country's being civilized.

RUBBER-TIRED STATESMANSHIP.

The Manila Tribune claims it has proof that Gen. Wood instigated the clash between Christian Filipinos and Mohammedan Moros which occurred when Col. Thompson, the presidential representative, arrived at Zamboanga, on the Island of Mindanao. On its face, this statement seems preposterous and illogical. Why should the Governor-General of the Philippines start a riot among wards of the United States over whom he exercises the duties of chief peace officer?

We know nothing of the case which the Manila Tribune claims it has made out against Gen. Wood, but there are certain underlying facts which make the Tribune's charges seem less absurd. It is generally known that the administration is very much interested now in the economic development of the Philippines, particularly in their potentialities as a source of rubber. It is equally apparent that the Filipinos are thirsting for independence, and that Col. Thompson is being met everywhere with petitions that the United States keep its promises and permit the Filipinos to govern themselves.

Of the many arguments being employed against setting the Filipinos adrift is that such a step would place the Mohammedan Moros of the southern islands under the domination of the Christian Filipinos of the northern islands. The unfairness of this is greatly stressed by those Americans opposed to Philippine independence, and incidentally interested in rubber. Is it simply a coincidence that the rubber lands of the Philippines are in the Mohammedan part of the islands?

So far as the rubber magnates are concerned, the northern islands can go hang as long as the United States controls the rubber lands of the south. It will be noted that the Moros, or a faction of them, are receiving Col. Thompson with open arms and beseeching him to keep the southern islands under the United States flag. These affectionate overtures, coupled with bad feeling and open disorders with the Christian Filipinos, are designed so to touch American hearts that we must change our minds about granting Philippine independence. If, by any chance, the northern Filipinos should become too insistent that the promise of the Jones law be fulfilled, the way apparently is being paved to cut the islands in two and keep the southern rubber lands under our benevolent wing. For it wouldn't do, would it, to permit the Christian Filipinos to dominate the Mohammedan Moros?

It develops that the place where Mr. Coolidge caught most of his fish was planted, showing how difficult it is for anything to be genuine unless you are nobody.

BIG STATE IN LITTLE BUSINESS.

Periodically, the working of an old Illinois law gives newspaper readers an amusing story of the visiting of vengeance by one person on another, with no outcome in the way of satisfaction of justice. Most of the states have long ago abolished imprisonment for debt. Illinois retains it.

The current instance concerns two women, one of whom refuses to pay the other a $200 debt, for which a judgment has been obtained. And the law permits the creditor to keep the debtor in jail for six months, on the condition that the creditor pay the prisoner's board bill. Mrs. Canis, the imprisoned debtor, defies Mrs. Hurley, the creditor, to compel her to pay. If she continues obstinate the State can do nothing except keep her in durance vile for six months, when it must let her go free.

In that case, nothing will have been accomplished save that the public will have witnessed the unsavory spectacle of a trial of endurance between two angry women. Mrs. Canis will not have to pay the debt, however just. Mrs. Hurley will simply have used the State and the courts to wreak an impotent vengeance on her enemy. And the dignity of the State of Illinois will have been further lowered by the enforcement of a foolish law.

England has more than two and one-half millions in idleness, not counting ex-King Manuel of Portugal.

BEHOLD THE MAN!

A day or two after Gertrude Ederle's extraordinary feat in swimming the English Channel and smashing previous records a noted American swimming instructor said there were several men who could beat Miss Ederle's time. Otto Vierkoeten, a German swimmer, has done it—by nearly two hours.

This in no way detracts from Miss Ederle's performance, nor that of Mrs. Corson. But it ought to put a stop to the nonsense about woman's impending superior physical prowess over man's. Such superiority is not in the order of things. Liberated from fetters of tradition, custom, fashion and sickly sentimentality, woman has made, is making and will continue to make slashing progress in all directions. But she is not man's physical equal and was not designed to be.

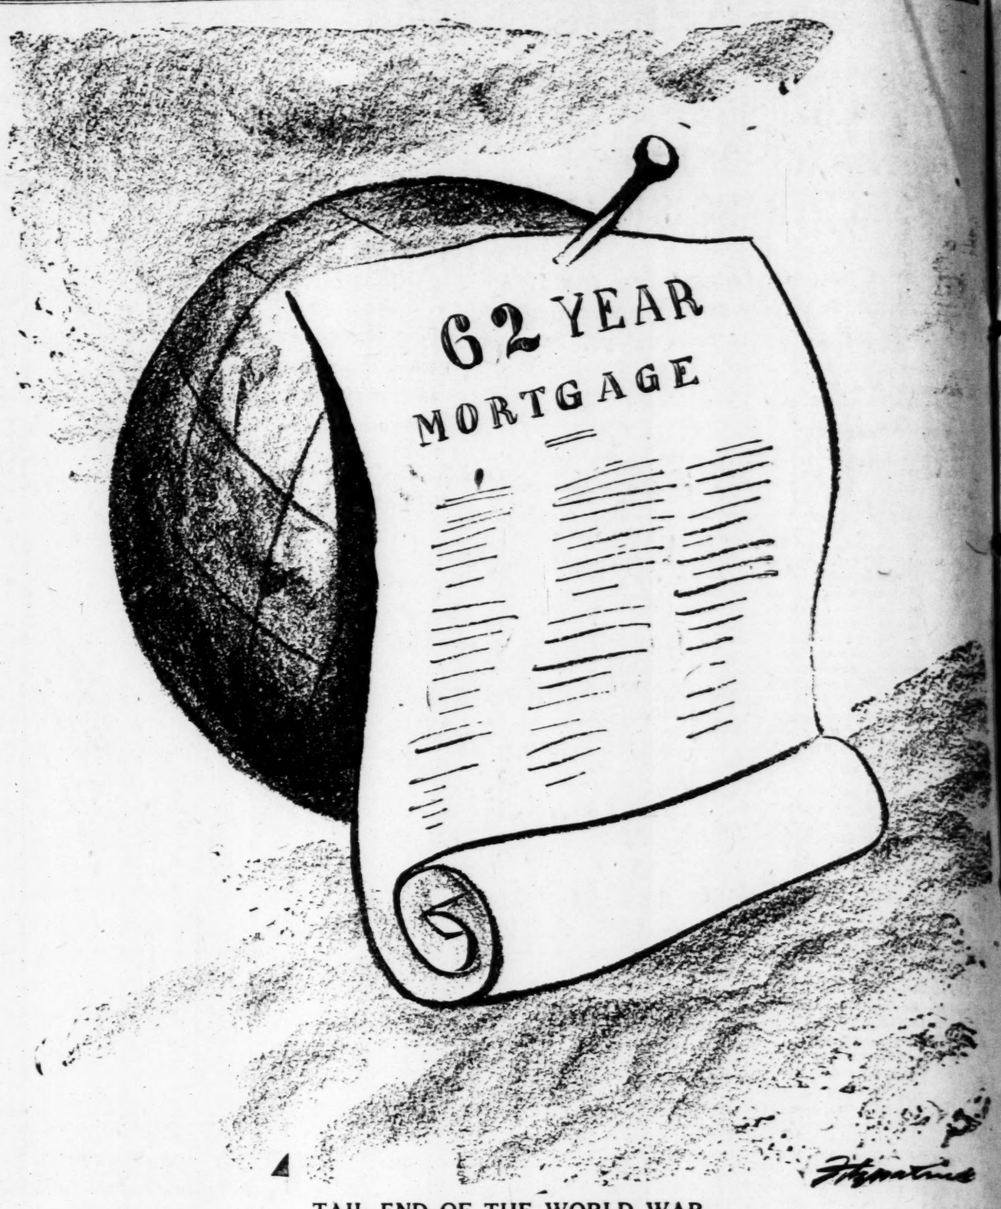

Suzanne Lenglen, for resilient illustration, is the woman prodigy of tennis, but there are scores of men who could beat her. Glenna Collett plays a corking game of golf, but frankly and pleasantly acknowledges that a man can hit a ball harder than a woman can. So in all the sports calling for strength and stamina. Women are doing wonders in a lot of them and are entitled to praise and homage and encouragement. But the chatter that woman will presently relegate man to second place physically is feministic blah. It can never happen until nature recasts her molds.

They are establishing a cemetery for dead geniuses. What's needed is shoes for the live ones.

HOW TO BE A NEW YORKER.

First, you rush to an undertaking parlor to see a dead movie star. If you are not trampled to death by the mob you meet there, you dash to the wharf with another mob to see Gertrude Ederle, Douglas Fairbanks, Krishnamurti and Peggy Joyce arrive. If this does not prove fatal, you wedge yourself in a suffocating group around a man who is selling patent collar buttons. Then, dodging taxicabs, motorcycles, trucks and kiddie cars, you go home, apply liniment, arnica and iodine to your body, give three cheers for Al Smith and a whoop for Jimmy Walker, and leap into bed to get a little sleep before the next day's fun. Such is life in New York, the world's greatest hick town.

Add atrocities of Chicago's gang war: "A string of leaden pellets punctured his forehead."

APPEAL TO HENRY.

It is true that the Ford's been the cause of much woe,
But 'tis true that we see them wherever we go;
I'll admit that the flivver keeps many folks broke,
But I'm loath, friend, to alter our national joke.

Like the leaves of the forest when summer is green,
The tin Liz on the highways on Sundays is seen;
('Twas Lord Byron, the poet, who wrote that first line,
So if this is poetic, the fault is not mine.)

Let us get back to what we were talking about—
It seems General Motors are causing a rout
In the sales of the flivver—the market's deranged,
And the orders are given the lines must be changed.

Ah, base business be damned that would dare to begin
To make changes in Henry's fair product of tin;
Let them shoot, if they feel that they must,
this gray head,
If they spare but the lines of the flivver instead.

If the people no longer for flivvers will pay,
There's but one thing to do and that's give them away;
For I fear fell disaster would soon overtake
The base wretch who would dare thus to alter that make.

'Tis men's clothes that the women are wearing today
And our progress has crushed that which stood in its way;
All the things that we cherished have gone
by the board,
In the general chaos. Oh, spare us the Ford!

STATISTICAL NOTE.

If all the straw hats ruined in Sunday's game were placed in one pile, they would warp.

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING?

"Jack Dwyer, a tall, well-groomed, slender brunette, with Grecian features, won first prize." No, it was not a contest in homemade radio sets; it was not an intelligence test; it was not a competition to see what could be done with a Ford, given three boards, a saw, a hammer, an ice pick, a few nails, a little ingenuity and a spare afternoon; it was none of these things. Had it been any of them, this paragraph would not have been written in the overwhelming grief of a broken heart. It was a male beauty contest—in London!

"Toll the muffled bells on board ship,
Let the air with grief be laden;
For, ye gods, his mighty lordship
Seeks to emulate the maiden."

A male beauty contest! Where is now our proud boast of the sturdy oak and the clinging vine? Where is that tradition which ascribed grace to the divinity that is woman and rugged strength to man? Where is Walt Whitman? Where is anything? Because they have appropriated all our prerogatives, privileges and peccadilloes, must we therefore imitate them? He-men, answer me! Even though we do imitate them, must we start with beauty contests? And the man with the mustache did not even show!

"Thou hast conquered, O frail imitation; man's strength has given way to thy grace;
We have drunken of gin synthetic, and hemen are now out of place."

Watson, the needle! Socrates, the hemlock! Cleopatra, the key to the royal snake house! A male beauty contest! Oh Death, bring on thy sting!

The MIRROR o PUBLIC OPINION

BRENNAN OF ILLINOIS.

PARKE BROWN of the Chicago Tribune in the September Century.

NOT so many years ago the Democratic party organization was ruled by the Big Three: Roger C. Sullivan of Illinois, Charles F. Murphy of New York, and Thomas Taggart of Indiana. All three lived up to the supposition that big political leaders have their yes men; but one of them, Sullivan, had also his no man, George E. Brennan. To him Sullivan sent seekers of recognition and favors who were to be turned down but whom Sullivan was unwilling to offend. Brennan's business was to do the refusing and to accept the blame. For years he was the most hated man in his organization. Brennan went the first step upward in public esteem when he threw his whole strength against a Republican machine raid on the State courts in Chicago. The second came when by his own efforts he gave the city Mayor Dever and a clean administration. And the third followed when, in spite of an $80,000 majority for Coolidge, he almost sent Judge Norman L. Jones, a down-stater, to victory over Gen Len Small. • • • Since the primary the liquor agitation has continued to boil, but the pot keeps bubbling through the dog days and warms up again when vacations are over. Brennan honestly thinks he will win in November. "This is not a contest between candidates but a vote of the people on an issue," he says in effect, and then, with a twinkle, adds, "Although I'll admit I'm just as good a man as Frank Smith, if not better."

THE OLD-TIME DOCTOR.

HARRISON RHODES in Scribner's Magazine for September.

"THE general practitioner, becoming rarer every year, should be crowned before he passes in a cloud of specialists and odd and slightly illegitimate physicians of all kinds. I had the good fortune once in my life to know a general practitioner of the old-fashioned kind, a country doctor. An unromantic figure, even a snuffy old gentleman, yet he lingers in my memory with something of the faint perfume of lavender that clings about such people as the vicar of Wakefield and others that I learned to know and love in books so long ago. An agreeable crispness of mind tempered his kindness and made it the more refreshing. 'I don't know whether this pain is better,' I remember saying once, 'or whether I am getting used to it.' There was a twinkle in his eyes. 'The best thing you can do,' he responded, 'is to get used to it.' I did so and it was."

THE DIRECT PRIMARY.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

APPARENTLY labor spokesmen have the innocent notion that "all over the land the politicians are plotting to amend or repeal the primary." On the contrary. Most of the politicians would be lost and undone without it. They know every trick and turn in the game of manipulating primaries, and most of them will fight for it to the end. Having mastered all the intricacies of the primary system and having adapted it to their purposes, they will keep it if they can. Politicians do not like responsibility, and there was never a device for dodging all responsibility for weak men and misgovernment that could equal the direct primary.

A two-day health institute, designed primarily to acquaint Catholic school teachers with the best methods to present health subjects in classroom study, will be held tomorrow and Thursday at St. Louis Cathedral School Hall.

Besides the 600 Catholic teachers of the city, a large number of mothers and members of various Catholic women's organizations will attend.

The program will start at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with addresses by the Rev. James P. Murray, superintendent of parochial schools; the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, regent of St. Louis University Medical School, and Dr. Miriam L. Rooney, health instructor at Loyola University, Chicago.

Thursday morning, beginning at 9:30, speakers will be Mrs. Robert L. Matthews, director of physical education, St. Louis University; the Rev. Ralph A. Shank, professor of educational administration, St. Louis University, and Miss Harvey Smith, health educator of the Tuberculosis Society, will speak.

A Health Fashion Show will be presented Wednesday by girls of Rosati-Kain High School, and a play, "The Scarecrow," Thursday, by pupils of St. Paul's School, Pine Lawn. The health institute was inaugurated last year by St. Louis University Medical School and the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis.

Paintings By St. Louisans Shown at State Fair In Carondelet Branch Library.

The collection of 150 pictures by St. Louis artists, which formed a special exhibit at the Missouri State Fair, is being installed at the Carondelet Branch Library, 6700 Michigan avenue, for public display. An advance view of the collection was given at the central Public Library immediately after it was assembled by the St. Louis Art League.

With the return of the pictures and co-incident discovery of a full complement of ribbons awarded by the art judges, it became evident to the League committee that their St. Louis artists' exhibit had also made an effective impression in the State.

It received the first, second and third premiums for paintings, with the accompanying cash prizes of $75, $50 and $25, respectively, as well as the State purchase prize of $250, thus taking the entire amount offered for exhibits in this field.

For his Missouri picture, "Winter Landscape," William Bauer was awarded the purchase prize. A. T. Winchell received the first premium and blue ribbon for "What the Eyes See in the Ozarks," and Alfred Russell was given the second premium, with red ribbon, for a Missouri landscape. "October," Oscar E. Berninghaus was honored again, having received the first and second premiums in previous exhibitions. This year he was given the third premium, the only award for which his picture was eligible.

Later the collection will be rearranged and shown at other galleries and neighborhood art centers, as one of the Art League's educational traveling exhibitions. Lectures in the galleries will be given through co-operation of organizations and persons interested in art.

IMPERIAL FAMILY OF JAPAN TO SELL PRIVATE SECURITIES

Wishes to Avoid Interfering in Disputes Between Capital and Labor Organizations

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 31.—The imperial family of Japan, one of the richest in the world, has announced that it will dispose of securities it holds in various private enterprises in the country. One reason for their sale is that the imperial family wishes to avoid interfering in any way in altercations between capital and labor, it being impossible to call a strike against any companies in which the imperial household is interested.

The stocks and bonds, worth many millions of yen, were acquired by the late Emperor Meiji to aid infant industries. The industries having become large corporations, the imperial family will sell its interests in them to private investors and purchase Government bonds with the proceeds.

Malady Kills One of Pope's Horses.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1926.

ROME, Aug. 31.—The Pope's horses have become affected with a mysterious disease. The famous black horses used daily by the Pope in his promenade through the Vatican gardens have been unpaired by the death of one of the team. This was a big loss, not only because of the value of the gigantic horse, but because it virtually is impossible to find a new one to match the team.

Two Attendance Records Broken as the Cardinals And Pirates Break Even

Biggest Weekday Crowd in St. Louis History Sees Doubleheader Reopening of the 'Little World's Series.'

By William F. Allen.

TWO baseball attendance records for St. Louis fell yesterday in the double-header reopening the "little world's series." The paid attendance of 29,522 was the largest weekday crowd in the history of the game here. This, added to Sunday's 35,978, makes a total of 65,000, the record attendance for two consecutive days.

With the issue undecided, with the National League pennant still in the balance and with another double-header scheduled today, the series likely will put up a mark that only a world's series can better. The reecipts for the two days were nearly $75,000.

Yesterday's crowd did not abandon itself to the frenzy of Sunday's. It couldn't.

Crowd Silenced by Kremer.

Ray Kremer, Pittsburg pitching ace who hung two world's series victories at his belt last autumn, rendered the throng virtually mute in the first game. A crowd loves attack and when the Cardinal attack was limited to two hits, there was not much to pitch straw hats about. A row of goose eggs for the home team is no occasion for a straining of vocal cords.

Baseball crowds are notoriously mercurial, and St. Louis fans have been known to turn against a team or a player in a single game, but yesterday's crowd clung loyally to the Cardinals. Inning after inning in the first game, the fans spurred them on, implored and begged for hits, for a revival of the old devastating attack that did not count a game lost until the very last man was out.

In more than one game a murderous Cardinal attack has snatched victory in the ninth after two men were out, and who could start such an attack better than Rogers Hornsby? He struck out—a final, convincing demonstration by Kremer that he was master.

Defense Fails to Sparkle.

The defensive play did not sparkle as it did Sunday though the Cardinals fielded smartly.

Jim Bottomley in two successive catches furnished one of the rare moments of cheering in the stands. He first went to the wall for a foul and on the next play ran into right field for a glove-hand catch. He did a back somersault but held the ball.

The second game had three high moments of unconfined joy. Pittsburg, by scoring in the first inning, had sent up a groan, but Douthit, moved to the top of the batting list, opened the Cardinals' half with a whistling two-bagger to left, and when Bell bounced a single off Joe Bush's glove, the count was tied, and remained so until the fifth, when the Cardinals dragged out of the dugout a semblance of that old attack. Three singles, mixed with a Pittsburg error, gave the Cardinals three runs and the ball game.

The crowd came up to a man and loosed its pent-up feelings in a roar that continued several minutes.

It got another cheer out of Bell's smash over the long left-field wall for a homer in the eighth.

Hornsby Spears a Hot One.

Hornsby was the sparkling fielder of the second game. On the dead run he speared a fast traveling grounder from Cuyler's bat. Hornsby had only an instant for a forceout at second and he accomplished it with a snap backhand throw.

In such a series, with such a stake, baseball crowds must have someone on whom to vent the spleen of disappointment. In this series Earl Smith has been the victim. The crowd, in Sunday's game, interpreted Smith's vicious slide to third as a deliberate attempt to spike Bell. Thereafter on Sunday and all day yesterday, the fans booed Smith's every move. He retaliated in the first game with two doubles, both of which figured in the scoring. In the second game he was brought in as a pinch hitter and in two times at bat got another double and a single.

Quigley was the first umpire to get into serious difficulties with the crowd. He called a strike for an out on Hornsby that looked low to the manager, and on Hornsby's spirited protest, the crowd began to harsss the umps. On the very next pitch he called a strike on Bottomley that the crowd thought bad, and for the rest Smith was forgotten. It was Quigley who was "robber" and everything that an umpire ever has been.

Crowd Gathers Slowly.

Yesterday's crowd was slow in coming, partly because of its difficulty in getting tickets. Several thousand reserved seats were placed on sale at 409 Olive street, but other lines appeared at the park at 11 a. m. and additional reserves, 5000 in all, were placed on sale there. At game time the stands were not filled, but the rapid flow through the turnstiles soon thereafter took up all except one or two small patches of the stands.

There were a large number of women present. The management announced yesterday that the usual free admission of women on Mondays had been suspended. Several hundred women who had not heard of the action appeared at the gates early, but few turned away; most paid.

RICHARDS AND WILLIAMS ENTER QUARTERFINAL IN NATIONAL DOUBLES

TITLE HOLDERS EASILY DEFEAT GUILD-GRAVEM

Davis Cup Captain's Severe Backhand and Vinnie's Smashing and Lobs Prove Feature of Match.

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 31.—R. Norris Williams and Vincent Richards, defending titleholders, won their second round match in the national doubles championship today against Henry R. Guild of Boston, and Alex Gravem of Chicago, in straight sets, 6—3, 6—1, 6—3.

Numerous and costly errors on the part of the east-west combination developed few rallies and compelled the champions to do a minimum amount of court covering. Williams' severe backhand returns of service and Richards' terrific smashing of lobs were outstanding features of the match.

The victory advanced the American Davis Cup stars to the quarter finals.

HORNSBY'S ANSWERS

(1) What was the price paid for Charles Flint Rhem? (2) What were the standings of the Yankees and Browns at the close of the 1922 season?—B. N. K.

(1) About $3000.
(2) Yankees first with .610; Browns second with .604.

(1) Pitcher is relieved in the fifth inning when he is in the lead. Does he get credit for the victory or does he have to pitch six innings? (2) Two outs, runner on first. Batter grounds to second baseman, who steps on base for force out. After charging the batter with a time at bat and fielder's choice, should he also be credited with "left on base?"—WHERLEY, Marion, Ill.

(1) If, when the pitcher left the game, there were enough runs on base to beat him, he does not get credit for the victory, the credit going to the relief pitcher who held the lead. Otherwise the first pitcher does get the credit. He does not have to pitch six innings.
(2) Yes.

Cubs Must Prove Miracle Team to Win the Pennant

Chicago, Now in Fine Form, Can Finish in Money With 20 More Victories.

By John B. Foster.

(Copyright, 1926.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—With all the excitement incident to the close in the National League pennant race, the teams have not wandered far recently from the single tracks in which they have been going. They are most surely beautifully matched in the West.

The Chicago Cubs have come back to challenge them all. They are almost 50-50 with the Western crowd, but their task is a hard one. If the Cubs prove to be a miracle team on the road they may still upset the beans.

If the Cubs win 20 more games, they will be dancing a jig on the Achilles tendon of some one of their Western rivals. They can't be kept out of the money with 20 more victories.

For six weeks in succession the Pirates, not playing championship ball by any means, have been in front at the end of each week. Championship baseball in their case does not mean they are not playing their heads off in trying to win, but they are not making the pace that the other managers anticipated.

The older managers have been caught napping in regard to the Pirates this year. Had there been any idea that they would skid as they have, there would have been a big effort to make a deal or two that might have put the post-season jackpot elsewhere than in Pittsburg.

Alexander Steadies the Cards.

This was more true of the East than the West, where the St. Louis team started the season primed up as Rogers Hornsby expected to take it through. And he has got along with it fairly well. His most important additions have been Southworth and Alexander, both veterans whom Hornsby did not figure upon early in April. "Old Alec" hasn't won a pennant for St. Louis, but he has won seven games and lost five, and he has steadied the team, which rather needed ballast, with so [illegible] of the young fry on it.

The Cardinals and the Reds have been running mostly single track like Pittsburg. The Cardinals have been consistently third except during the weeks of Aug. 14 and 21, and the Reds have been consistently second except during the same weeks when they shifted places with St. Louis.

Pittsburg has been out of first place for a moment or two, but don't overlook the fact that the big thing is being in first place is to be there on Saturday night, when the week ends, because pennant races have a habit of ending on Saturday or Sunday and this year is no exception to the rule, as the games which will be played after Sunday, Sept. 26, will have little bearing on the pennant, especially in the National League.

Cubs' Batting Improves.

Don't overlook the fact that the Cubs are going up in their batting as a team. It is the most significant development of the past ten days. If they improve about four points more they may strike a substantial batting accelerator which may land them nearer the top than the other boys think.

The weakest point of the Cubs is that they haven't a bunch of pitchers who are strong against Boston and Brooklyn. That might jar the fan, as it undoubtedly jars the Cubs. This team, which is the pepper of the National League race, has pitchers who have been able to outwit the Phillies, 14 games to four, and the Giants, 11 games to seven, and yet they have won only seven of 19 against Brooklyn and nine of 17 against Boston.

If the Cubs had been unable to win against Boston and Brooklyn as they have won against the other Easterners, they might have won the pennant. Even now if they can slambam Boston and Brooklyn into mud, when they turn East, the Cubs may sneak through in the dark and win unless they are licked to a stop before they leave home. Any licking like that would be the first this year.

During the morning running two dogs belonging to Tom and Mike Gibbons distinguished themselves by running qualifying races for the second series.

One is a setter called Service, the other, also a setter, is Liberty Loan. The latter has been a winner before and while he may not land in the money on the present occasion, he will at least have a chance in the finals unless some of the dogs that are to follow crowd him out.

"Dirtiest Game in the World," Benny Leonard Says of Boxing

Former Champion, in Magazine Article, Decalres Youngsters "Earn Their Money Not by the Sweat of Their Brow but by Their Life's Blood."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Benny Leonard, retired lightweight boxing champion, has stirred up a hornet's nest. In an interview by John B. Kennedy in the current issue of Collier's Weekly, Leonard calls boxing "the dirtiest game in the world."

The former champion qualifies this statement by saying that boxing has its slums and "professional boxing is a nasty game."

"Boxing made me," he says, "physically, mentally, in every way. But professional fighting is a nasty game. See a modern champion riding around in a limousine, and you don't think so. But get into the slums of the business, go to the cheap gymnasiums and the cheaper clubs and see how the youngsters have to earn their money, not by the sweat of their brow, but by their life blood—and you'll realize that boxing holds nothing further for any sane man who has got all it can give.

"I'm not knocking the game that made me rich. But I'm through with it. I want to see it continue, strictly regulated, with the harpies driven out. The youngster who gets into the ring quickly should get what he can quickly—and get out. Unless you're a champion or a near-champion, it's the dirtiest game in the world.

"No promoter has made me any offer to go back to the fighting business. They know I always keep my word. I'll certainly keep it with my mother."

Leonard says the hardest fight of the 200 plus in his career was with Willie Ritchie, in Newark, some years ago. He admits financial independence through real estate holdings, a garment business and successful vaudeville tours, added to his ring earnings.

On the basis of his statements, Colliers institutes a national letter contest as to whether boxing should be abolished.

AMATEUR STANDING VALUED ABOVE $25,000 BY DUKE KOHANAMOKU

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 31.—His amateur standing and the privilege of entering the next Olympic games for a crack at the crown he lost to Johnny Weissmuller mean more to Duke Kahanamoku, three times Olympic champion swimmer, than a $25,000 prize.

The Hawaiian announced here yesterday that he would attempt to swim the channel between Santa Catalina Island and the California mainland three weeks hence but would not swim for $25,000 purse hung up for later competition by William Wrigley Jr., as that would make him a professional.

The channel swim is possible, Kahanamoku says, although rapid changes in temperature, often 20 degrees in a few hundred yards, will be the greatest obstacle.

Guy McKinney Is Winner in Trot

Scores in Straight Heats in Race Worth $45,868 to the Victor.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Guy McKinley, a bay son of Guy Axworthy, owned by Henry B. Rea, of Pittsburg, and driven by the veteran, Nat Ray, won the Hambletonian Stakes No. 1, richest event in trotting history, here yesterday.

The Pittsburg colt reeled off the first mile in 2:05¼ and the second in 2:04¾. The track was in excellent shape and the weather ideal for trotting but, despite the competition that the big stakes produced, the track record of 2:03½, established by Tom Murphy's Czar Worthy, was not endangered.

Guy McKinney's victory was worth $45,868.42 to his owner who also received the four-foot Hambletonian trophy donated by the Onondaga Hotel.

Guy Dean, another Pittsburg entry, driven by Walter Cox, finished second and drew down $13,105.26. With Ellie Trabue, owned by Mrs. Ella Trabue, of Jacksonville, Ill., and Charm, Ben White's filly, Guy Dean furnished the contention for Guy McKinney whose victory yesterday left him undefeated and the winner of his third big trotting stake this season. Previously, he had anneved the Matron Stake and the Stallion championship.

NEW ENTRY MARK FOR MIDDLE STATES MARK

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Many entries have been received for the Middle States regatta to be held on the Schuylkill River.

The number sets a new record. Crews from all parts of the East will compete, including combinations from Baltimore, Washington, New York and Canadian cities.

But one of the 26 schedled races had to be scratched for lack of entries. It was a new event, the junior 145-pound eight-oared race.

Eight entries in the junior singles and seven in the junior doubles were the largest. Four crews will strive to win the senior eight-oared race.

JACK DEMP

HARRY GREB NOW FAVORS THE CHAMPION

Former Middleweight King Changes His Mind About Probable Result of Title Fight After Watching Dempsey Work.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31.—Jack Dempsey is planning a 24-hour vacation after today's workout. He believes himself entitled to a day of recreation once a week, like any other laboring man. He has been going for seven consecutive days here and fears he will become a trifle stale if he does not take a little rest.

"The fight is nearly a month away," he said today. "And I would be foolish to train every day and tune up as if I were to strip into the ring with Tunney next week. As a matter of fact, I could get into shape for a short fight within a week's time, and I intend to make this one short; but I do not intend to overtrain."

One or two-day layoffs will occur regularly once a week or whenever his handlers feel that the champion is getting a bit fine.

Dempsey Near Fighting Weight.

At present Dempsey has only five or six pounds at the most of excess flesh, and this must be conserved to avoid his entering the ring on Sept. 23, underweight.

The champion worked impressively yesterday, taking five sparring partners on for a round a piece. He looked more like the savage, scowling Dempsey of old and caused Harry Greb, former world's middleweight champion, to switch his opinion in favor of Dempsey. Previously Greb had favored Tunney.

He said, however, that unless Dempsey scored a knockout within three or four rounds, Tunney might be returned the winner on points.

Greb, who has fought Tunny five times for a total of 65 rounds, intently watched from a ringside seat every move Dempsey made.

"The champion certainly looked improved today," Greb said. "He worked splendidly. He looks like the winner. But if he doesn't win within three or four rounds Tunney might beat him to the decision. Tunney is a good boxer and moves his head around so fast that he's no bargain to hit with a knockout punch."

Dempsey revealed more speed than heretofore and snapped over his punches with old-time viciousness. He devoted his attention to shooting over a right cross as a counter to a left jab; also driving rights under the heart. Dempsey boxed a round each with Charles Anderson, the Chicago 212-pounder, Bill Tate, Tillie "Kid" Herman, Frank Carpenter and Jimmy Brown.

Anderson and Tate, who boxed the first two rounds, assimilated a two-fisted attack which Dempsey mainly directed to the body, occasionally whipping over a left hook or a right cross. Anderson smiled every time Jack's gloved fists sunk into his midsection, but he was happier when the bell ended the round. Carpenter was knocked down when Dempsey nailed him with a left hook.

TUNNEY WILL CHANGE TRAINING CAMP TODAY

By the Associated Press.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Gene Tunney, heavyweight contender for Jack Dempsey's crown, spent his last day in his New York State training camp in comparative leisure. Some road work in the morning and a few rounds at the light bag sufficed for his training yesterday.

During the afternoon he took a walk along mountain roads and then returned to that next in his favor to boxing, his books. He spent the remainder of the day reading, now and then casting a longing gaze out over Lake Pleasant, where a high wind threw up white caps and kept him from his daily canoe trip.

The fighter yesterday added one more to his retinue. This time it was no slim-waisted leather pusher, but "Pants" Lawrence, Adirondack guide, who during Tunney's stay here has been conducting the fighter's woods and water excursions. The woodsman's official position in the Tunney camp seems to be that of body guard.

Lawrence, who is about 50 years old, is an ex-Sheriff of Hamilton County.

Tunney will leave Speculator this afternoon.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT TO BACK UP WIENER IN RICKARD CONTROVERSY

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Because of a squabble over the allotment of tickets for the Dempsey-Tunney fight Sept. 23, Jules Aronson, associate promoter, has notified Tex Rickard, who will run the bout that he (Aronson) will have nothing to do with the affair. In a letter to Rickard, Aronson said he was not satisfied with the ticket apportionment.

Aronson's action came shortly after Gov. Pinchot had announced that he was behind Frank L. Wiener, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, all the way in his efforts to protect the rights of our people.

Babe Ruth Signs $100,000 Contract To Appear on Stage

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—BABE RUTH broke another record here yesterday. He signed a $100,000 contract for a 12 weeks' vaudeville engagement after the next world's series. According to reports it is the largest contract of its kind ever signed. The Bambino will make the tour alone.

The act originated for him is said to be unlike anything ever presented before in vaudeville. The tour opens in Minneapolis and will take the home-run king to the Pacific Coast, returning east before the spring training season begins.

RHODY GAINS VICTORY IN FIRST YACHT RACE

By the Associated Press.

BAYSIDE, L. I., Aug. 31.—Rhody, sailed by W. O. Comstock and representing the Narragansett Bay fleet, took the first of the international star class yacht series yesterday over the 11¼-mile triangular course in Manhasset Bay. Rhody had a lead of 22 seconds over Movie Star II, sailed by Bray Schauer of Los Angeles. Rhody's time was 3:11:36.

Trailing the leaders at varying margins in the following order were Talita, New Orleans Gulf fleet; Dona Bertha, San Diego Bay; Alya, Western Lake Erie; Hula Star, Hawaiian Islands; Doris, Lake Erie; Scrapper, Detroit River; Tempe II, Newport Harbor, Cal.

Four more races will be held before the championship is decided.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT TO BACK UP WIENER IN RICKARD CONTROVERSY

"Mr. Rickard is not the Governor of this State," the Governor said. "I am."

Rickard was reported to have told Wiener that "if the fight were lost to this city Wiener might lose his job as commissioner."

Rickard characterized the ticket controversy as a joke and said the whole matter had been adjusted. He said Wiener would get 4000 choice seats and that he (Rickard) would be left with only three-fifths of the ringside tickets.

In a discussion over tickets, Wiener said that he was not going to the speculators to get the choice seats, to which Rickard replied "speculators will get no tickets from me. I don't do business that way."

As to the withdrawal of Aronson, Rickard said, "I put his name in there just to please certain people in Philadelphia. He never has had anything to do with promoting the fight."

Dempsey Not Worried Over Kearns' Suits; Shifting Bout Break for Jack—Tunney

Champion Asserts Legal Action Will Not Worry Him in Ring; Hints at Recourse to Courts Himself.

By Jack Dempsey.

(As Told to a Post-Dispatch Representative.)

(Copyright, 1926.)

This legal run-around that Jack Kearns is giving me isn't causing me any fretting and any worry. It's not going to get my "goat" nor is it going to effect me on the night I climb into the ring with Gene Tunney.

JACK DEMPSEY

The Kearns lawyers evidently take the attitude that he has some basis in law for his suit against me. It happens I have a few lawyers, too, and I imagine they are about as shrewd as those of Kearns. They tell me that Kearns hasn't a chance to collect on that contract and that when the showdown comes they'll prove it.

After I get through with this Tunney fight, I'll get my lawyers busy on filing a little of this suit stuff, too. So long as Kearns wants to air the whole thing in court, I'm going to make it a finish fight. I want that bird put on a witness stand so that my lawyers can get him to do a little accounting concerning all of the money—every last dollar of it—that he handled for us when we were working together.

Can't Get Kearns' Slant.

I can't quite get the Kearns slant on this suit and all these attachments now. If I was the kind that let a gang of process servers disturb my sleep, I'd perhaps decide to just duck the fight. And then where would Kearns be on his claims of $166,666 of my share of such a fight?

Or if worry was something that sent me into a ring with my mind all at sixes and sevens and I was whipped, where would Kearns be on his claim of $166,666 for a Wills fight? For, if I were whipped, there'd be no Wills fight.

A peculiar bird, this Kearns, and as time goes on, he seems to be getting more and more so.

One Bout He'll Win.

And when I get through with Kearns and all these legal things and we've both told our sides to the Judge or a jury, I'm rather sure that even Kearns won't be cheering so loudly in his own behalf as he seems to be doing these days.

But all that will wait until after I get through training for Tunney and knocking him off. When that's done, Kearns and I will stage this finish fight of ours. And that's one bout I AM going to win.

Former Marine Admits Longer Battle Was to His Liking but Will Have New System Ready.

By Gene Tunney.

(As Told to a Post-Dispatch Representative.)

(Copyright 1926.)

Shifting of our battle to Philadelphia is something of a "break" for Jack Dempsey. But I figure that even such a mass of luck for him won't be enough to save him from getting a beating on Sept. 23.

GENE TUNNEY

I'd figured that in a 15-round bout, such as New York State rules provide, I was an absolute cinch to win. In my opinion, Dempsey is not a distance battler. He can go along O K for four or five rounds, but after that he seems to have blown most of his real energy and the furious aggressiveness stuff no longer is so evident.

My whole battle plan, based on a 15-round limit, was to try out his chin for the first two rounds, and if he was too tough to drop just then, I'd figured to let him wild-swing and run himself dizzy for about six or eight more rounds, and then, going into the eighth, ninth or tenth, start to beat him with jolting attacks that certainly would put him down before the fifteenth.

Has New Plan Ready.

But I'm not worrying about that. I'm merely changing my battle plans. The old one called for slugging with Dempsey for a round or two—and then making him run himself dizzy and helpless. It called for feinting him into wild swings until he was arm weary and then stepping in along the tenth and proceeding to finish him.

Now—well, I've been working along on a different schedule since they made this a 10-rounder. Just what it is, I won't reveal now. But as my training progresses, I'll unfold that new plan and when I get it perfected, it will be just as effective against Dempsey in a 10-round fight as the old one would have been in a 15-rounder.

OOSTERBAAN, MICHIGAN END, GETS OFFER TO TURN PROFESSIONAL

By the Associated Press.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Aug. 31.—Bennie Oosterbaan, University of Michigan end who was rated all-America by many authorities last fall, today made public a letter signed "Bob Folwell, chairman of the committee on players," asking him if he cared to join the Philadelphia team of the American Professional Football League.

"Kindly advise by return mail or telegram," the letter said in part, "if you care to play on our team. If so, state when and where we can have a conference."

Oosterbaan said he made the letter public because of his understanding that the rules of the professional league bar invitations to players still in college.

"I haven't the slightest idea of turning pro," he said. "I am just a junior at Michigan and am hoping to make the team there this fall. Nothing could get me to leave college football."

Mitchell Accepts Bout.

By the Associated Press.

VERNON, Cal., Aug. 31.—Telegraphic acceptance by Pinkie Mitchell of Milwaukee, Wis., junior welterweight champion, of a title bout here Sept. 22 with Mushy Callahan of Los Angeles has been announced by Hyden Wadhams, matchmaker. The bout will be 10 rounds to a decision.

MILLION DOLLARS IS OFFERED ON DEMPSEY AT ODDS OF 2 TO 1

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—BETTING commissioners here have received approximately $1,000,000 in cash and certified checks to be placed on Dempsey to win at any odds between 8 to 5 and 2 to 1.

Most of the money is from New York.

"The idea of the syndicate which is backing Dempsey to the tune of $1,000,000 is that odds against Dempsey will lengthen very quickly and that long before fight time they may have to lay 3 to 1 or even 4 to 1 on Dempsey to get down their money.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Wall Street betting commissioners today reported that Jack Dempsey remained a 2 to 1 choice over Gene Tunney. The firm of J. S. Fried & Company declared, however, that it had placed $2,000 of Tunney money against $8,000 that the challenger would win by a knockout.

Harvard Coach To Try Midwest Football Style

Haughton System, Wrecked by Inadequate Handling, Will Be Ditched This Year.

By LAWRENCE PERRY.

(Copyright, 1926.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Harvard's lineup of coaches for the coming season means that the Crimson is going to jettison all that pertained to the Haughton system and play football that will have a strong Middle Western complexion.

Arnold Horween, the head coach, played football under Bob Fisher at Harvard, to be sure, but after graduation he joined a pro team in the West, as did his brother, Ralph, who will be an assistant at Cambridge this year.

Then Chuck Carney, who was an All-American end at Illinois last year and coach at Wisconsin, will look after the Harvard wing men, while Jim Bader, a great line man at Madison from 1918 to 1921 and after that an assistant at Wisconsin, will be line instructor.

Football today is not the football of 1916—the last year in which Haughton coached at Cambridge. And in the last Columbia team that he coached it was clear that no one realized this more fully than he did.

Had he lived he would be at Cambridge now and under him Harvard football would still be what it once was. For a model of power deceptively applied on attack and defensively a marvel of fierce and discerning resistance.

Haughton Spirit Departed.

But Haughton died and as time went on it became clear that while the letter of his system remained the spirit, the essence had gone with him. Realizing this, at length the Harvard coaches struck out into new fields but instructive imagination was lacking—such imagination for example, as Haughton displayed when he perfected an interference which relatively speaking ignored the line of scrimmage and established itself in an opponent's territory. All good teams do this now, but Haughton it was who initiated it.

And so in the end there remains nothing that Horween seems minded to retain.

Playing "Middle Western football," then just what may be expected of Harvard? Well, for one thing, no great conservatism on attack on radicalism is not so exclusively a Middle Western possession as it used to be. In fact at not a few Eastern institutions even the most advanced of the midlands would not be looked upon as radical were these mentors to be transferred to the seaboard campuses. But Harvard is not one of these; not any more. And so the change will be more impressive.

Defensively one may expect a less erect stance in the line, more of the up-and-under lifting charge, with the line knowing what to do after their initial drive.

All-Star Baseball Contest Terminates at Midnight; Judges to Be Named Soon

In Case of Ties in Selections, Prominent Sportsmen Will Decide Winner on Basis of 200-Word Explanation; Trophies Total $200.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth All-America Team Contest

Any reader who mails to the Post-Dispatch between Aug. 1 and Aug. 31 a team of 10 players (except Ruth himself) in the National and American Leagues for the season of 1926, with a letter of not more than 200 words, explaining the selection of the team, is eligible to compete.

The reader whose team—two pitchers and eight men in the other positions—is the same or nearest Ruth's selection and is accompanied by the best letter giving reasons for the choice, will be declared the winner.

The contest winner must not only select the same 10 players as Ruth, but must assign them to the same 10 positions on the team.

Players may be placed in positions other than their regular places provided they have played in those places in at least one regular league game in 1926.

Players must be selected on the basis of their playing in 1926, NOT on records made in previous seasons.

In case no team is exact the same as that selected by Babe Ruth, the one nearest will be named on the merit of his accompanying explanation.

Violation of any rule set forth here will render selections unavailable.

The winning contestant will receive $100 in cash and the runner-up and third best selections and letters $50 apiece.

In addition, Babe Ruth himself offers an autographed bat to the winner of the first prize. The bat will also be inscribed with the winner's name.

The Babe Ruth All-American team contest, which has been in progress since Aug. 1, closes at midnight. Last-minute entries may be deposited in the large mail box at the entrance of the Post-Dispatch Building.

Babe Ruth will pick his team in the next week or ten days, and the reader whose selection coincides most closely with Ruth's will be the winner of the $100 first prize, unless two or more tie, in which case the winner will be decided on the merit of his 200-word or less explanation which must accompany each selection. Second and third prizes each will be $50 in cash.

Besides the $100 trophy the winner of first prize will be awarded a bat autographed by Babe Ruth and inscribed with the winner's name. In making his choice Babe will be advised by sport authorities in all the major league cities.

Selections of readers have been published from day to day merely for the interest they may have had for readers. The fact that they were printed does not mean they will receive special consideration.

A board of judges, prominent in St. Louis sport circles, will be chosen by the Post-Dispatch and announced in a few days. In case of ties in the selection, these men will decide the winners on the basis of the accompanying explanations.

Here is a squad selected by William Kohl, 2612 South Seventh street:

Gehrig, Yankees, first base.
Hornsby, Cardinals, second base.
Jackson, Giants, shortstop.
Bell, Cardinals, third base.
Speaker, Cleveland, center field.
Southworth, Cardinals, right field.
O'Farrell, Cardinals, catcher.
Rhem, Cardinals, pitcher.
Penock, Yankees, pitcher.

Eldon Fitzpatrick, McLeansboro, Ill., has sent in the following all-star team:

Burns, Cleveland, first base.
Lazzeri, Yankees, second base.
Thevenow, Cardinals, shortstop.
Bell, Cardinals, third base.
Wilson, Cubs, center field.
Southworth, Cardinals, right field.
O'Farrell, Cardinals, catcher.
Kremer, Pittsburg, pitcher.
Rhem, Cardinals, pitcher.

Aaron Singer, 1814½ Carr street, mails in this team:

Burns, Cleveland, first base.
Hornsby, Cardinals, second base.
Wright, Pittsburg, shortstop.
Traynor, Pittsburg, third base.
Mostil, White Sox, center field.
Cuyler, Pittsburg, right field.
Hargrave, Cincinnati, catcher.
Root, Cubs, pitcher.
Uhle, Cleveland, pitcher.

Wills Sought as Foe for Persson, Swedish Fighter

Newly - Arrived Heavy Not Ready for Such Big Game, Fair Play Writes.

By Fair Play.

(Copyright, 1926.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—By reason of his recent victory over John Risko Harry Persson, the tattooed blond from Sweden, is in line for a big wad of money and probably some fine lickings.

Match-makers are making much of him and kidding his manager into believing he is a world beater. This is an art the matchmaker uses to sign up a popular ring figure. Persson is no exception and everybody wants to use him before his box office value is shattered.

Jess MacMahon wants him to fight Harry Wills and Persson is said to be willing. The chances of the match taking place are mighty slim. Jimmy DeForest has a lot to say about whom Persson fights and it is not likely he will toss him in with Wills when there are plenty of easier one around.

Wills Eager to Battle.

Of course Wills is eager to fight anybody now that he knows he will not meet Dempsey this year, but whether his manager, Paddy Mullins, will permit him to fight under the Rickard-MacMahon banner is another question. Mullins blames Rickard as much as Dempsey for his inability to get a fight for Wills with the champion and Mullins is not going out of his way to put any money in the Rickard coffers.

Persson looks like a good fighter but he is by no means ready for the best we have.

MacMahon is looking over the heavyweights with a view of matching some of them for the preliminaries to the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia. Jack Sharkey seems like a good bet to meet Persson.

Apparently MacMahon is not interested in Persson's future or he would not be asking him to tackle the Boston strong boy. Sharkey without a doubt is one of the few real good heavyweights in the land.

MIDWEST FAIR OPENS IN FAIRMOUNT PARK

Trotting and Running Races on Program; Farm Products and Carnival Included.

The Midwest Fair, which opened yesterday in Fairmount Park on the Collinsville road and will close Monday night, is a big one. First of all, the place is big. For races there is the Fairmount track. The dirt—there was no dust yesterday, and less today—was kept well stirred yesterday by races for trotters and pacers, two running races and five exhibitions. A similar program is offered daily.

Spacious pavilions, under and adjoining the grand stand, are occupied by products of farm and factory. The grandstand itself dwarfed a crowd of race fans that apparently ran to 2000 or more.

Roomy stables for livestock shows are down at the western curve of the track. It's a long promenade from the grandstand to them, on those extensive grounds, and the lack of shade was felt. In between, however, a whole carnival was just getting under way with a Ferris wheel, several elaborations of the merry-go-round and other amusements, besides a dozen or so "sucker" booths.

Auto Show in Tent.

Industrial exhibits under the grandstand cater to a multitude of needs and fancies. They range from brick ice cream to building bricks, and a whole circus tent, down near the stables, is taken up by an automobile show which includes handy devices for the farmer's or factory hand's garage.

About half the industrial exhibits were of architectural plans, construction material, building and loan systems or something connected with "own your own home." A lumber concern's exhibit that drew the crowd was a section of a tree-trunk with a card above it headed, "In 1687 this tree was an inch in diameter," and listing a series of events since that year.

For the housewife there were washing machines and electrical appliances galore. One concern exhibited hundreds of articles of glassware on a tier of shelves, ranging from baby's graduated bottle to grandpa's gallon demijohn.

Farm Products Exhibit.

Back on the opposite side of the grandstand from the track were hundreds of the best in the harvest, from great, glowing peaches, rosy apples and purple grapes down to the lowly potato. Even the spud was grand in size, although outdine by 12foot cornstalks and beets 10 inches long and six inches thick.

In the "Fine Arts Building" adjoining on the east the womenfolk gazed and pointed and chattered in an orgy of sightseeing. Here were booths for a "Better Babies Conference" and an exhibit of the Illinois Public Health Department. A few stared at art work in charcoal, pen and ink, oil and water colors, but most were drawn to the more familiar art of homemade rugs that admirably concealed their source, fine linens, huge and seductive pies, light bread and preserves that looked as though they had been done by a master of mosaics.

Former Mexican General Executed.

By the Associated Press.

—LOST ARTICLE—
Advertising
When concentrated in the Post-Dispatch is almost certain to restore the article if it is found by an honest person, because the Post-Dispatch is the recognized Lost medium of St. Louis invariably consulted by persons who find lost articles. It is also a fact recognized by St. Louisans that many lost articles are advertised exclusively in the Post-Dispatch. Each week the Post-Dispatch prints TWICE as many LOST and FOUND ads as the next St. Louis newspaper. If a lost article cannot be recovered through the Post-Dispatch it is, as a rule, not recovered.

CATERPILLAR-TOWBOAT ON TRIAL TRIP TO CHICAGO
Reaches La Salle, Ill., to Attempt Passage of Canals Today on Final Stage.

Today is the day set for the attempt to establish waterway freight traffic between St. Louis and Chicago via the Illinois and Michigan Canal. The caterpillar towboat, Sunco A—2, recently demonstrated in St. Louis, reached La Salle, Ill., Saturday after a voyage up the Illinois River. Today it is scheduled to proceed through the canal, to a connection with the Chicago Drainage Canal and the Chicago River.

CATERPILLAR-TOWBOAT ON TRIAL TRIP TO CHICAGO

Reaches La Salle, Ill., to Attempt Passage of Canals Today on Final Stage.

Today is the day set for the attempt to establish waterway freight traffic between St. Louis and Chicago via the Illinois and Michigan Canal. The caterpillar towboat, Sunco A—2, recently demonstrated in St. Louis, reached La Salle, Ill., Saturday after a voyage up the Illinois River. Today it is scheduled to proceed through the canal, to a connection with the Chicago Drainage Canal and the Chicago River.

The Illinois and Michigan Canal has been idle for years, so far as freight traffic is concerned. The Standard Unit Navigation Co. of St. Louis, controlling the Sunco boats, plans to establish waterway freight communication between St. Louis and Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, and later to enter the Tennessee and other tributary streams.

In a demonstration at Peoria, on the trip up the Illinois River, the new towboat surprised river men by its ease and quickness in evolutions, which are of value in getting long tows around sharp bends. "She turns on a dime, and has a nickel left in change," was the comment of an official of the Peoria Association of Commerce.

CAIRO (ILL.) WOMAN ENDS LIFE

Mrs. Viola Taylor Found Dead on River Bank.

CAIRO, Ill., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Viola Taylor, 25 years old, daughter of George Walker, a business man, was found dead with a bullet wound in her right temple, on the Mississippi River bank, a half mile from this city, yesterday afternoon. She apparently had killed herself. When found, she still gripped a revolver from which five bullets had been fired. All but one had missed.

Mrs. Taylor's mind had been affected since she was knocked down and her skull fractured by an automobile, about three years ago. She had made several unsuccessful attempts to take her life. She was sent to a hospital for observation in July, but her commitment had been made without an order of the Court and she was discharged from the institution 10 days ago on the petition of her husband, Earl Taylor. Doctors protested against her being taken from the hospital. The revolver with which she took her life had been obtained by stealth from the room of a neighbor in the apartments where Mrs. Taylor lived.

"Now He Agrees"

"Jim at first didn't see the need of bothering. But I insisted that he should start at once this daily custom of good breeding and of good health."

LITTLE habits or customs that are new to us are difficult to start. When we do put them into practice it is because some one, interested in our welfare, has repeatedly suggested them to us.

We all know that the nose is the gateway to most infectious diseases. The nose must be kept clean. Nasal hygiene is of first importance if we wish to thwart disease.

Daily nasal cleanliness is so simple and easy to attain. Apply ARZEN in the nostrils, night and morning, with the provided medicine dropper. The immediate benefits will be surprisingly pleasant.

The nasal passages are cleared. You breathe better, deeper and more freely. The whole body benefits. But there are additional results from daily nasal cleanliness. There is a sense of personal hygiene that is delightful. One enjoys the feeling of fastidious freshness. There is no more desire to discontinue daily nasal cleanliness than there is to quit brushing the teeth.

SPECIFIC USES

Thousands are adopting the custom of daily nasal cleanliness. Arzen used daily prevents colds. Stops them if started. Excellent for Hay Fever Relief. An aid in sinus trouble. Daily nasal cleanliness prevents infectious disease. Keep the nose as clean as the face.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

E. E. J.—Some curio dealer may be able to tell you the value of the pewter plate that is nearly 150 years old.

L. M. A.—The qualifications necessary for becoming a notary public were published Aug. 22 in the legal section of this column. Consult the file at the Public Library for the above date.

STUDENT.—Lincoln University, a Presbyterian college, at Lincoln University, Pa., was the first Negro university to be established in the United States. This school was established in 1854.

INTERESTED. — If your teeth are white the preparation you mention as using for a cleaner is very bad and harmful, as it contains a very concentrated acid which will in time cause a disintegration of the tooth substances.

E. X. H.—Apply to the Assistant Librarian at the Central Public Library for a library position. The St. Louis Public Library has a training school for librarians. A college education or its equivalent is required for entrance to the training school. The course is from September to June.

NEW R. C.—The College of Cardinals is made up of 70 members when complete, of whom six are Cardinal-Bishops, 50 are Cardinal-Priests, and 14 are Cardinal-Deacons. Dennis J. Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia, was created a Cardinal in 1921. There are four American Cardinals.

HOUSEKEEPER. — The proper way to clean linoleum is to sweep off the dust and then wipe up with a damp cloth. Several times a year the surface of the linoleum should be thoroughly waxed. Granite linoleum and figured coverings are best cleaned without the use of water.

J. L.—Consult your parish priest about a boarding home for the four little girls. St. Philomena's Home for Girls on Union and Cabanne avenues might be suitable for a teen-age girl, but not for very little girls. You might visit the home or write to it for further information.

B. G. S.—Tow bugs are found in upholstered furniture quite frequently. They can be exterminated, but not very successfully, by home disinfecting. We will send you the name of a firm that guarantees its work in exterminating tow bugs if you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

MRS. T. H. K.—In the year 321 the Roman Emperor Constantine issued an edict protecting the Christians and ordering the legal day of rest or the Sabbath day observed on the first day of the week instead of on the seventh day. Since that time most Christians have considered Sunday as the Sabbath day.

CURIOSITY. — Safety matches differ from ordinary matches because the phosphorous is omitted from the composition used for the match head. It is combined with sand to make the friction surface on the match box. The composition used for the head of an ordinary match is usually phosphorous and nitre or phosphorous sulphur and chlorate of potash. These substances are mixed with melted gum or glue and are colored with vermillion, umber, soot or other coloring matter.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

SEEKER.—Write to the Adjutant-General, Lansing, Mich., for information concerning a soldier's bonus from that State.

E-Z MARK. — For information regarding the rating of the insurance company consult the State Insurance Commissioner, Jefferson City, Mo.

V. K. M.—Write to the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., for information about getting copyrights for your stories and songs.

B. X. Z.—You may notify the prohibition enforcement officer at the Customs Building, Eighth and Olive streets, about the odor of mash in your neighborhood.

C. M. L.—Applicants for certificates as Certified Public Accountants must be over 25 years of age, of good moral character, high school education covering four years, or the equivalent of a high school education, or pass an examination given by the State Board of Accountancy, and must have at least three years of practical accounting experience. Examinations are given in theory of accounts, practical accounting, auditing and commercial law as affecting accountancy. Write to the State Board of Accountancy, Jefferson City, Mo., for complete information about examinations, dates and places held.

P. D. T.—Section 7100, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1919, provides for the use of silver coins as follows: "The silver coins of the United States are hereby declared a legal tender, at their par value, fixed by the laws of the United States, and shall be receivable in payment of all debts, public or private, hereafter contracted in the State of Missouri: Provided, however, that no person shall have the right to pay, upon any one debt, dimes and half dimes to an amount exceeding $10, or of 20c or 25c pieces exceeding $20." Pennies as legal tender are not mentioned in the Missouri statutes, though United States Revised Statutes, Section 3587, says they are legal tender for any amount not exceeding 25c in any one payment.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

MRS. K. L.—Pregnancy is not possible under the conditions you mention.

OLD ROUNDER.—Stricture may be relieved or possibly cured by dilation treatments from a surgeon. Or, an operation to cut away the contracted region may give relief. Such work can only be done by a surgeon, as medical treatment could not be of any benefit.

CONSTANT READER. — You should seek expert medical advice. Rheumatism may develop at any age, though persons in middle life are more subject to the disease than children or old people. The heart can be invaded by rheumatism at any time, so there is an element of danger present in any case of rheumatism.

R. S. V. P.—Devitalizing influences, sickness, convalescence, or some physical defect may cause suspension of the menses in a young girl. If there is no interference with the general health and well-being such a condition need not cause worry. You may consult a physician to determine the cause in your case if you desire, though in time the condition may right itself.

NEIGHBOR OF SLAYER HELD FOR MURDER OF RECLUSE

Illinoisan Arrested After Further Disclosures by Murderer of Peter Rosenberger.

By the Associated Press.

VANDALIA, Ill., Aug. 31.—Henry Wooters, neighbor of Frank Sparr, who confessed to the murder of Peter Rosenberger, Assumption farmer, is under arrest here. Sparr has accused Wooters of being implicated in the murder of the aged recluse.

"I've kept quiet for a long time, and now I'm going to tell all I know," Sparr told the county authorities after Wooters had been arrested. The arrest of Wooters was made following a lengthy investigation made by Sheriff Green and State's Attorney Welker.

Wooters denied any connection with the killing of Rosenberger. He had testified at the inquest.

Hay Fever Disappears When Cause Is Removed

Insurance Man Gets Relief Following Dr. W. I. Fugate's Discovery of Basic Cause of Disease

A letter written by A. R. Coffin of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, for 25 years a sufferer from hay fever and asthma, tells of the permanent relief secured following the use of a prescription compounded by Dr. W. I. Fugate, and based on the physician's discovery of the basic cause of these distressing maladies. Mr. Coffin writes:

"I suppose everyone who has hay fever and asthma thinks he has it worse than anyone else. I won't put forth any such claims but I had it bad enough. I had never been able to stay in town through the hay fever season since I was twelve years old.

"In the past I tried a great many of the so-called cures without any beneficial result. Four years ago I bought a bottle of your medicine and took same as directed. That year I was able to remain in town. Since that time I have not had a touch of either hay fever or asthma.

"I am only too glad to recommend your medicine and thank you for selling me the bottle four years ago."

It was Dr. Fugate's discovery that pollen and dust, which most people think cause hay fever, merely intensify it, but that the cause is a condition in the system of the individual. His remedy corrects this condition and thereby overcomes the disease, often creating immunity.

Contains no narcotics or habit-forming drugs. Sold on the guarantee to refund your money if it does not give relief. For complete information write us, or, if you are now suffering, wire only your name and address at our expense.

SERUM SENT BY AIR MAIL GIVES PATIENT A CHANCE FOR LIFE

Package Reaches Little Rock by Plane 28 Hours Ahead of Fastest Trains.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 31.—Treated by a serum which was rushed from New York to Little Rock yesterday in 18½ hours, J. Harvey Walthall, gangrene victim, was said today by physicians to have a fighting chance for life.

Walthall, a packing company employe, suffered a crushed arm Wednesday. Physicians decided Sunday that his only hope for life lay in a gangrene anti-toxin, which has been recently developed. It was to be obtained only from a pharmaceutical company in New Brunswick, N. J. A package was ordered from there by long-distance telephone.

The packet was placed on an air mail plane at New York at 9 p. m. Sunday. It arrived in Chicago at 4:50 a. m. yesterday and was picked up by Charles P. Nelson, a mail pilot for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, who made the 260-mile trip to St. Louis at an average speed of 120 miles an hour. Capt. Murray Hall, an army flyer, received the package at St. Louis at 11:45 a. m. yesterday and landed here with it at 3:30 o'clock.

By train the package would not have arrived here until tonight. The first train for St. Louis, from New York after 9 p. m. Sunday, when the packet was ready for shipment, was 2 a. m. yesterday. It would have arrived in St. Louis at 8:30 a. m. today and the serum would have got to Little Rock at 7:10 p. m.

Ex-Convict Leaves Death Note.

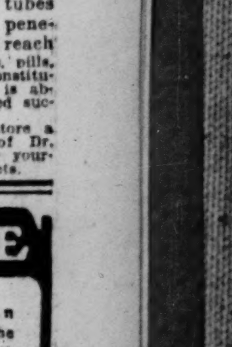

Police have been asked to search for Thomas B. Dodson, 22 years old, who disappeared from his home, 1009 Brooklyn street, leaving a note in which he said he had taken poison. He was released from the Missouri Penitentiary in December, 1925, after serving two years for burglary.

For Inflamed Breathing Tubes

Try Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes in the Next Attack

If you have catarrh you are in danger of losing your hearing. The first symptoms of catarrhal deafness are roaring or buzzing sensations and a stopped-up feeling in the ears. A neglected cold, or an uncured cold, leads to catarrh, and as everybody knows, catarrh affects the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs and frequently undermines the general health.

The secret of the successful medication of these hidden parts was discovered by Dr. Blosser in his medical practice. This remedy is applied by smoking a certain combination of medical herbs (containing no tobacco) in a pipe or cigarette. Dr. Blosser's Remedy produces a dense smoke vapor which is inhaled or forced into the Eustachian tubes leading to the middle ear. It penetrates to parts impossible to reach with balms, salves, sprays, douches, pills, tablets, liquids and so-called "constitutional treatments." This Remedy is absolutely harmless and is being used successfully by adults and children.

You can get from any drug store a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes and prove for yourself their pleasant beneficial effects.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"Operations for the rise gained momentum in railroad and oil shares in more active trading on the stock market today and in spite of some liquidation in recently active industrials, the trend of the market was toward higher levels. Prospects of an easier rate for money after the Labor day recess and expectations of increased speculative activity with the end of the vacation period apparently inspired renewed buying. Indications of enlarged earnings for carriers whetted traders' appetites for rail stocks. Switching operations in the bond market resulted in advances in many of the convertible industrial issues. Foreign bonds were slightly easier. Rails were well supported.

Increased Demand for Rails.

"Heavy buying of seasoned railroad stocks resulting in establishment of several new high records for the year led to considerable irregularity in the industrial list. Traders showed an inclination to switch from less active industrials to favored stocks in the carrier group with consequent declines in several erstwhile leaders. Demand for Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line and Union Pacific increased perceptibly. Besides Atchison and Southern, which went to the highest prices on record, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Delaware & Hudson and Norfolk & Western sold at the best levels of the year.

Earnings Reports Help.

"Demand for rail shares was based to some extent on further earnings figures for July showing that the second month this year the class one carriers would earn better than the 6 per cent annual return on $20,500,000,000 valuation. Figures compiled to date indicate a total net income for the important roads last month of $122,000,000, compared with $99,462,725 a year ago.

Credit Outlook Improves.

"Another favorable market factor was the improvement in credit conditions, reflected in the decline in loans to brokers reported by the Federal Reserve Bank and the easier tone in call money. Brokerage borrowings dropped $11,000,000. Although banks called loans to the amount of about $10,000,000, offerings from out of town institutions were sufficient to meet requirements and in the 'outside' market funds were offered at 4¾ per cent after a renewal rate of 5 per cent had been posted on the Stock Exchange.

"Oil stocks continued active, although the advance in this group lacked the uniformity shown in rails. Texas Co., Barndall and other favorites worked higher, while California Standard was strong. Realizing sales checked the rally.

French Francs Strong.

"Renewed strength of French francs was the most interesting development in the foreign exchange market. Rates on Paris rose about 8 points in response to buying in London, advancing to within a short distance of the 3c level. Belgian and Italian exchanges improved while pesetas recovered most of yesterday's sharp decline. Sterling held steady in a narrow range.

Irregularity in Commodities.

"A reaction in wheat prices resulted in some irregularity in the principal commodity markets. Declines in wheat ranged to more than 1c a bushel. Corn was in demand, however, late deliveries rising about 2c a bushel. Cotton worked higher again, advances of about $1 a bale being recorded in nearby positions.

Impoverished truck farms are rapidly passing from North Carolina because of a new industrialism which has raised the total value of the State's products from $400,000,000 in 1910 to $1,345,000,000 in 1925, says the New York Trust Co. Manufactured products last year were twice the value of farm products, the report said. North Carolina now ranks second only to Massachusetts in cotton textile manufacture, having increased its output from $72,680,000 in 1910 to about $400,000,000 last year.

New Securities

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The sale of $28,475,000 of 4 per cent New York State bonds by the Comptroller takes place tomorrow. Five groups, with much the same lineup that prevailed in 1924 when the State sold $12,500,000 of 4 per cent bonds to Speyer & Co. and the Bank of Manhattan at 103.41, are expected to bid. The second bid of 102.619 was presented by National City Co., First National Bank, Bankers Trust Co., Brown Bros. & Co. and Harris, Forbes & Co. The third group, headed by W. R. Compton, bid 102.559, the fourth, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Dillon, Read & Co. and Kidder, Peabody & Co., bid 102.527. J. P. Morgan & Co. were alone with their bid, 102.517. Chase Securities Corporation and Blair & Co., Inc., formed the sixth group.

Siemens-Schuckert Halske, German electrical manufacturers, expect to market a $30,000,000 issue here through Dillon, Read & Co. The firm denies any intention of forming an electric trust with German General Electric, but reports larger sales. It is believed the Siemens loan will facilitate conversion of the 1928 and 1935 bonds now outstanding, callable respectively at 101 and at 103½ at any time after July 1 last.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Prices were unchanged in the raw sugar market early today with the undertone firm. A sale was reported of 24,000 bags of Cuban to an outport refiner for late September shipment at 4.27 for Cuban, duty paid.

The raw sugar futures market was steady at the opening, but advancing 1 to 2 points on covering and buying by trade interests, prices reacted under realizing and selling for Cuban account. At midday they were 1 point net higher to 1 point net lower. There were 110 September notices issued, but they were promptly stopped and had little effect.

A fair inquiry continues for refined sugar with prices unchanged at 5.55 to 5.70 for fine granulated.

Sugar futures closed irregular; approximate sales, 50,000 tons; September, 2.54; December, 2.65c; January, 2.67; March, 2.65; May, 2.74.

†Red wheat.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 31.—Wheat closed lower and corn higher on the local market, September corn being 1½c better. Heavy Winnipeg receipts were an offset to wet weather report. The fact that tomorrow was first of September also exerted influence, as the amount of deliveries was matter of conjecture. Fears of possible frost damage was ascribed as factor in corn market.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was steady to 1c higher, the advance being in dry milling grades. Hard was 1c to 5c lower, with greatest demand in low grades. Corn was steady to 1c higher. Demand was good. Oats were steady to ½c lower. Demand was fair.

French threshing returns, according to today's reports, are smaller than were anticipated. The overnight export business was estimated as aggregating 500,000 bushels.

The early range of wheat prices was narrow and extended on both sides of previous close. Liverpool closed unchanged to ½c higher. Winnipeg early was ½c to ¾c higher. Shorts covered there on rain in Canadian West with possibility of delaying threshing. Corn was unchanged to fractionally higher early.

September wheat opened at $1.32⅝, December wheat, $1.35, September corn 77½c, and December corn 81c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 1168 cars of wheat, compared with 442 a week ago and 967 last year. Minneapolis receiving 599 cars, Duluth 86 and Winnipeg 483.

Local wheat receipts, which were 190,400 bushels, compared with 86,800 a week ago and 79,800 last year, included 106 cars local and 30 through. WHEAT RANGE IRREGULAR ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Wheat values held firm during the early trading today, reflecting strength in Winnipeg, but around midday heavy Eastern selling showed and forced a sharp decline. The market then gradually steadied but failed to recover much.

Wheat closed tame, ⅛c to 1⅜c lower; September $1.31¼ to $1.31½, December $1.35¼ to $1.35¼, May $1.40¼ to $1.40⅜. Corn closed active, local buying caused a late rally in corn. The close was ⅛c to ½c higher, September 75⅝c to 75½c, December 82½c to 82⅝c, May 88⅝c to 89c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c higher, September 36c to 36⅛c, December 40¼c to 40⅜c, May 44⅞c. Lard closed 7½c to 10c lower, ribs unchanged to 10c lower, bellies 17½c to 37½c lower.

Local cash sales were 40,000 bushels of wheat, 65,000 of corn, 85,000 of oats.

Rains in the Canadian Northwest and predictions of more moisture, which would retard threshing, caused Winnipeg firmness. When the market here firmed on that news it failed to get expected support and then met the same class of selling that has dominated for several days. As the session progressed it appeared that the market was taking offerings better than at first expected.

The Seaboard reported little export interest, but advices intimated that if the market held steady for a few days the trade would broaden. Milling demand here was fairly good, with the basis steady.

Receipts at Winnipeg today were 453 cars. They are expected to show a natural increase for the next few weeks. The Canadian visible supply decreased over 3,000,000 bushels for the week, but it still is in excess of a year ago. The German wheat crop is unofficially estimated at 82,000,000 bushels, or 25,000,000 below last year. Quality of the French crop is confirmed as disappointing and the country is expected to require some of the world surplus this year. Liverpool closed unchanged to quarter pence higher, showing poor response to our advance of Monday.

Corn continued to feel September liquidation. A house with Eastern connections was a good seller of the nearby delivery and bought about as much December. This looked like longs were about ready to let go of their hold on the September.

Commercial demand was moderate with the basis steady. Country offerings were light. There were 60,000 bushels more corn posted as out of condition.

Oats acted better, but moved within a narrow range.

Liquidating the September delivery appeared to be about over. Cash interests bought September and sold December, shifting hedges. Stocks at Minneapolis increased 540,000 bushels for three days.

Provisions were firm early and then eased with hogs. Lard was unchanged to 7½c lower, bellies 7½c lower.

Chicago Grain Carlots.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Carlot receipts: Wheat, 404; corn, 49; oats, 417; rye, 17; barley, 19.

†Red wheat.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 31.—Wheat closed lower and corn higher on the local market, September corn being 1¾c better. Heavy Winnipeg receipts were an offset to wet weather report. The fact that tomorrow was first of September also exerted influence, as the amount of deliveries was matter of conjecture. Fears of possible frost damage was ascribed as factor in corn market.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was steady to 1c higher, the advance being in dry milling grades. Hard was 1c to 5c lower, with greatest demand in low grades. Corn was steady to 1c higher. Demand was good. Oats were steady to ½c lower. Demand was fair.

French threshing returns, according to today's reports, are smaller than were anticipated. The overnight export business was estimated as aggregating 500,000 bushels.

The early range of wheat prices was narrow and extended on both sides of previous close. Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛c higher. Winnipeg early was ½c to ⅞c higher. Shorts covered there on rain in Canadian West with possibility of delaying threshing. Corn was unchanged to fractionally higher early.

September wheat opened at $1.32⅝, December wheat, $1.35, September corn 77½c, and December corn 81c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 1168 cars of wheat, compared with 442 a week ago and 967 last year. Minneapolis receiving 599 cars, Duluth 86 and Winnipeg 483.

WHEAT RANGE IRREGULAR ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Wheat values held firm during the early trading today, reflecting strength in Winnipeg, but around midday heavy Eastern selling showed and forced a sharp decline. The market then gradually steadied but failed to recover much.

Wheat closed tame, ⅜c to 1⅜c lower; September $1.31¼ to $1.31½, December $1.35⅜ to $1.35¼, May $1.40¼ to $1.40⅜. Corn closed active, local buying caused a late rally in corn. The close was ⅜c to ½c higher, September 75⅝c to 75¾c, December 82½c to 82⅝c, May 88⅞c to 89c. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c higher, September 36c to 36⅛c, December 40¼c to 40⅜c, May 44⅞c. Lard closed 7½c to 10c lower, ribs unchanged to 10c lower, bellies 17½c to 37½c lower. Local cash sales were 40,000 bushels of wheat, 65,000 or corn, 85,000 of oats.

Rains in the Canadian Northwest and predictions of more moisture, which would retard threshing, caused Winnipeg firmness. When the market here firmed on that news it failed to get expected support and then met the same class of selling that has dominated for several days. As the session progressed it appeared that the market was taking offerings better than at first expected.

The Seaboard reported little export interest, but advices intimated that if the market held steady for a few days the trade would broaden. Milling demand here was fairly good with the basis steady.

Receipts at Winnipeg today were 453 cars. They are expected to show a natural increase for the next few weeks. The Canadian visible supply decreased over 3,400,000 bushels for the week, but it still is in excess of a year ago. The German wheat crop is unofficially estimated at 5,000,000 bushels, or 25,000,000 below last year. Quality of the French crop is confirmed as disappointing and the country is expected to require some of the world surplus this year. Liverpool closed unchanged to quarter pence higher, showing poor response to our advance of Monday.

Corn continued to feel September liquidation. A house with Eastern connections was a good seller of the nearby delivery and bought about as much December. This looked like longs were about ready to let go of their hold on the September.

Commercial demand was moderate with the basis steady. Country offerings were light. There were 60,000 bushels more corn posted as out of condition.

Oats acted better, but moved within a narrow range.

Liquidating the September delivery appeared to be about over. Cash interests bought September and sold December, shifting hedges. Stocks at Minneapolis increased 540,000 bushels for three days.

Provisions were firm early and then eased with hogs. Lard was unchanged to 7½c lower, bellies 7½c lower.

Chicago Grain Carlots.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Carlot receipts: Wheat, 404; corn, 49; oats, 417; rye, 17; barley, 19.

COTTON FUTURES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 3 to 8 points and sold up to 17.88c for December before the end of the first hour, the general market showing net advances of 16 to 21 points.

The advance met a good deal of realizing and a little Southern hedging, but buying was stimulated by bullish private crop reports, relatively firm Liverpool cables, further complaints regarding the Egyptian crop outlook, and prospects for further showers in the belt. A private report pointed to a crop of 14,650,000 bales, compared with the last Government indication of 15,248,000 bales, while another estimated the condition at 58.6 and the indicated yield at only 14,380,000 bales.

The early advance extended to 17.93c for December or about 20 to 25 points net higher, but considerable realizing was encountered as prices reapproached the 18c level and there were setbacks later in the morning. Except for profit taking offerings were restricted by the prospects for further showers in some parts of the belt and the small private crop estimates, however, and the market showed a steady undertone. At midday December was selling around 17.87c or about 18 to 21 points net higher.

Realizing sales were absorbed on midday setbacks of 8 or 10 points and the market was firm later on renewed covering, which seemed to be promoted by the private crop figures. At 2 o'clock December was selling around 17.95c, the market showing net advances of 20 to 25 points. Another private report placed the indicated yield at 14,610,000 bales.

OILS PROMINENT ON CURB MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—There was a further broadening of activity starting with the beginning of business as a result of the demonstrations that came into the oil group late yesterday. Many of the oil stocks came into prominence again. Venezuelan Petroleum was a feature in the tropical issues and there was a show of strength in the early trading in Carib Syndicate, but the advance in that stock was followed by a quick reaction. Continental Oil, which added materially to its production through the opening of the Californian well last week, was firmly held and an advance was made in Prairie Pipe Line. Vacuum Oil, which was ex-dividend of 1 point, recovered a part of that distribution. Generally, the market's most important feature was the increase in public interest in these issues.

Utility issues were generally steady. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and Electric Bond & Share made fractional gains, while Northern States Power and Southeastern Power showed fractional losses. Mohawk Power was also slightly lower.

Industrials were irregular. Lehigh Valley Coal and Glen Alden Coal were both strong and Mohawk Valley, in which trading was on a large scale, rose over 2 points, crossing 41. Durant Motors, which had held strong up to a short time ago, was in continued supply and yielded about 1 point. There was heavy trading again in General Motors dividend stock, which, after a fractional advance, was under pressure a greater part of the day. Fox Films, after yielding a fraction in the early trading, became strong and moved up about a point. There was an increased demand for Purity Baking, which made a fractional advance. Warner Pictures "B" had a sharp drop following a decline in the "A" shares on the Stock Exchange.

Mining stocks were active, with special interest attached to Consolidated Copper Mines because of its heavy earnings resulting from the Nevada Consolidated contract.

CHAPTER XV.

IN the beginning he was grateful to his fraternity brothers because they left him alone when he most wanted to be alone. Later, he became a little worried. It seemed to him that there were undertones to their attitude . . . manifest in the sharp stop of conversation when he came unannounced into a room, in eyes that dropped when he looked at them steadily. . . . This grew more marked as time went on, until finally, one day a month after Brad's funeral, he was moved to ask his roommate about it.

"What is wrong with the boys?"

"What do you mean, what's wrong with 'em?"

"Giving me the high hat"——

"No, they're not!" Bones said vehemently—so vehemently that Jock's suspicions were confirmed. "They are not. Why, why, the devil should they? They've simply got the idea that you feel too bad to be bothered for awhile. What do your want, anyway? You don't want them mauling you over all the time, telling you how sorry they are, do you?"

Jock smiled wearily. "Be yourself, Bones. You're talking applesauce. I know there's something up—now what is it?"

Bones, caught, changed his tone abruptly. "Don't pay any attention to them," he begged. "They're a bunch of half-wits." He got up and began to stalk about the room aimlessly as he talked. "I suppose I may as well tell you, because as soon as you felt a little less low in your mind Carey Brown was going to have a talk with you about it, anyway." Carey Brown was head of the fraternity. "The fact is, Jock—well, remember what I told you back in the fall about you and Mrs. Hathaway?"

"I sure do," said Jock, and felt queerly chilled all of a sudden.

"Well, there's an impression around college now that you're connected with Brad's death in some way—oh, hell, Jock, don't look like that! Don't get me wrong. Nobody thinks you—what I mean, everybody knows he shot himself, there's no doubt about that. But they think he did it on account of jealousy, because he came in late at night and found you here with his wife. You see, Ken Kennedy answered the 'phone when she called you—he recognized her voice. And then he heard you say 'He's not there? All right, I'll be right over'—or something like that. And he's gone blabbing it around. And nobody knew what time you came in—" Bones was painfully embarrassed, his face on fire. "Jee, I hate to tell you this, Jock! It's a stinking shame—"

"Oh well," Jock said, striving for a light tone, "that's the breaks you get." His perceptions were coldly clear. Of course. Circumstantial evidence. Ken had called him to the 'phone that night. Ken had said, meaningly, 'Sounds like your friend Mrs. Hathaway.' Ken had listened while he talked to Eunice. . . . It seemed to Jock that he could see Ken yet with the eyes of his recollection, standing in the dining-room doorway, crunching crackers. . . . And naturally the fraternity resented the implication. Scandal in college was not an individual affair, it was a fraternity affair. This, a scratch on the cherished escutcheon of Zeta Kappa.

His determination to shield Brad never wavered. But a little instinct for self-preservation made him say, "As for that, you can tell Ken Kennedy—or I'll tell him myself—that Eunice telephoned me that night to tell me Brad was missing, and to ask me to try to find him. He had said he'd be back at 9, and at 1 he hadn't come, and she was scared. That's why I went over there. I was going out to look for him, but he came in just a few minutes after I got there."

"Where had he been?" Bones interrogated.

This required a lie. "I don't know, he didn't say. He'd had engine trouble somewhere—that was what made him so late."

"Well," Bones said drearily, "you ought to talk to the boys about it. You ought to stick up for yourself. This damn talk that's going around—there's no sense to it—and it would only take a few words from you to set it straight, with the fraternity at least. They don't want to think the things they're thinking, Jock! If you only knew why Brad did it, some logical reason that would let you out—but you don't, do you?" His voice was pleading.

"No," said Jock, looking him straight in the eyes. "No, I haven't any idea."

Following this conversation, he considered having a talk with Ken Kennedy and some of the others. But in the end he decided against it. "I can't tell 'em the truth," he reflected, "and anything less wouldn't do any good. Hell, let 'em think what they want to."

Still, he felt somewhat bitter. "Brothers." There was irony in that term now. The pledges they took to stand by one another, and then when something like this happened they were as quick as any outsider to lose faith! . . . He assured himself he didn't care what they thought, but in reality he cared tremendously; he cared so much that at times he was sorely tempted to tell them the truth about Brad and show them the letter. An impish voice in his ear would whisper, 'Brad's dead. It couldn't hurt him. It can hurt you. It's hurting you now. You've got your life to live. Go ahead and tell them, you fool!" . . .

But week succeeded dragging week, and he did not.

The Zeta Kappa staircase was so constructed that anyone descending came into sight piece by piece, like a sectional postcard opened lengthwise. At noontime of a mild spring-like day in late February Jock Hamill's feet appeared at the top of these stairs and proceeded to bring the rest of him slowly down. Handsome legs in golf stockings of a blue-and-gray diamond pattern. Knickers, voluminous and drooping low. Coat that matched the knickers, bisected by an oblong of white linen shirt. Surmounting this oblong, a soft collar with a neat bow tie. And finally, the sculptured brunette head that made all young women and some old ones catch their breaths a little.

At the foot of the stairs the head ducked forward in an attitude of listening, and Jock stood still. A medley of excited voices drifted to him from the living-room.

". . . If that's not hot I'm crazy! . . . "Yes, and look at the bus, will you? She must be Mrs. Rolls Royce" . . . "Say, they're stopping here!" . . "Probably got the wrong place, no luck, boys, no luck" . . . "Well, don't tell her if she has. Let's kill the fatted calf and have her in" . . . .

Upon entering the room whence emanated these peculiar comments, Jock perceived a group of his mates struggling for points of vantage at the front windows. He joined them.

A monstrous limousine, painted creamy white and agleam with polished nickel, was drawn up at the curb outside. A chauffeur in uniform presided at the wheel, and in the tonneau, like a glittering jewel in a showcase, sat Yvonne. She was leaning forward, looking inquiringly at the house, and she wore garments that matched her equipage . . . a white wrap of ermine, and a white toque against which her hair flamed conspicuous as blood on snow . . .

These things Jock noted in the fraction of a second. Another second, and he was yanking the front door open, taking the porch steps in one jump, crossing the sidewalk. 'Yvonne!"

For a while that was all he could say; her name, over and over again. So many words beat at his lips at once, and impeded each other, and locked each other in. "Yvonne!" . . . He took both her white-gloved hands and held them in a grip that must have hurt her. He devoured her with his eyes. "Oh, Yvonne——"

She smiled at him, that remembered smile that carved a long, dreamy dimple deep in one cheek. "You didn't forget me, Jock Hamill?" And presently she laughed aloud and said, Why don't you say something?"

"I can't," Jock told her. "I'm too crazy-happy. I just want to look at you——"

Then questions came in a swift stream. When had she returned to New York? Why hadn't she let him know? How did she happen to be here? . . .

"Day before yesterday," she retorted. "And I thought, instead of letting you know, I'd drive down here and see for myself whether or not you still cared about knowing——"

"You're finding out, all right!"

"Nm-hum. You are glad to see me, aren't you?"

"Well—roughly speaking!" he almost shouted.

Her great gray eyes wandered past him then, to the Zeta Kappa facade. "I don't think I ever beheld quite so many heads," she observed.

Jock turned. The windows were indeed full of heads, still staring with unashamed interest. As he looked, the heads bobbed and grinned, and one youth lifted his right hand, clasped it with his left, and shook it vigorously in token of wholehearted approbation. It came to Jock that they had not shown him such friendly attention for weeks. "Look!" he said. "Right now I'm the most popular man in the fraternity, because I'm the only one who knows you." Pride swelled in him, and he tugged at Yvonne's little hand. "Come on, darling—come in a minute and let me introduce them."

"Mountain to Mohammed?" began Yvonne. But something about Jock's face made her yield. She got out of the limousine and stood, straight and slim and dazzling, on the pavement. "You just want to parade me," she accused, dimpling up at him, "—like a little trick puppy on a leash!"

"You bet your sweet life I do!" he admitted joyously. "I want to walk in there with a "yah-see-what-I-found' look in my eye, and watch you mow 'em down like—say, what are you laughing at, woman?"

"You. You're so absurdly naive."

"You mean I'm so idiotically in love——"

He had never loved her more than during the ensuing few minutes in the fraternity house. She sat enthroned on a window seat, her gorgeous coat spread out around her like the background of a painting, her head tilted sideways—and without any visible effort whatever made a dozen blaze young collegians her slaves. Her first faint lazy smile from the doorway had caught them, and the tenacles of her beauty and personality held them fast. "I knew it!" Jock gloated secretly. "She's knocking 'em cuckoo!" Every admiring glance that fastened on her, every guffaw elicited by things she said, every small compliment added its tithe to his exhilaration.

He said little. Talk effervesced around him, and he stood silent for the most part, looking and listening, and thinking, "Lovelier than ever. She caught a tan in California and it's becoming. Gosh, what a smooth getup! That white fur. She always looks like a million dollars, anyway. And maybe she doesn't know her groceries! Poise. Says just the right things. Look at Fat Hastings, gawking. Bet he never saw such a girl in his life. Well, who has, for that matter? There never was such a girl! For God's sake, what did I do all these weeks without her? How did I stand it" . . .

Suddenly he wanted her alone. Where he could feast his eyes upon her without fear that alien eyes would notice. Where he could take her in his arms. . . . He stood up and pulled her with him. "Come on, Yvonne," he said. "Enough of this rabble."

The worthies thus designated were reluctant to let Yvonne go. They voiced protests. Why go? Dull idea, checking out now. Stay to lunch or something. . . . But Jock, deaf to their entreaties, and full of the hauteur of enviable proprietorship, bore her in triumph away.

"Just drive, Michael. Anywhere. It doesn't matter."

The chauffeur nodded, and the limousine lunged forward, a singing, winged thing. "We'll drive till we find a good inn," Yvonne continued, "and then we'll eat a lot of things—don't you always feel like eating a lot of things, weather like this?—and then we'll drive some more. How does that sound?"

"Too good to be true!" Jock leaned back, letting his body sink into the downy upholstery. "Some boat!" he commented. "Is it new?"

"No, I've had it—about a year."

He scarcely heard her. He had drawn her arm through his, and their faces were almost on a level . . . in the intoxication of such proximity he lost interest in the limousine completely. "Now!" he sighed. "I've been waiting—how many centuries is it?—for this minute." He thought he would kiss her; he longed achingly to kiss her. But it was high noon, and the streets were thickly peopled. . . . He looked away hastily from her red parted lips. "Funny," he mused, "now that it's over, and you're back, I'm just beginning to realize how very damn miserable I've been all this time. It was most particular hell, Yvonne."

"Was it? What-all did you do with yourself?"

"Oh—thought about you, and wondered about you, and wrote you poems, and letters that I couldn't send—why didn't you let me have your address, Beautiful?"

Yvonne hesitated, her eyes straying from his. "There's a girl who's trying awfully hard to bow to you," she said, instead of an answer.

Jock followed her glance. Eunice . . . standing on the street corner, staring . . .

"Who was she?" Yvonne asked when they had passed.

"Nobody. Eunice Hathaway."

"She's very attractive."

"Yah," said Jock laconically. And dismissed Eunice forthwith. "What did you do with yourself, honey? Did you have a good time?"

"No."

"You didn't? Why not?"

"I don't believe—I'll ever have a very good time anywhere again—unless you are there."

She began this speech haltingly, and ended it in a rush. Jock could hardly credit the delicious evidence of his ears. "What?" he cried. He sat up straight, towering over her, and his brown eyes glinted. "Yvonne — sweetheart — do you mean that?"

"I'm afraid I do."

He peered at her a moment longer, to make sure. Then he emitted a mighty whoop. "You do! You mean that! Oh, gosh, Yvonne—" He would have kissed her then, regardless of onlookers, but she held him gently away.

"Not now," she said. "Not until I've told you what I came down here today to tell you. After that you may not want to kiss me—ever again."

The upper picture at the left is of Georgette printed in flower design and the popular polka dot with king blue Georgette and lace with a large brimmed straw hat trimmed in a matching ribbon. The center photograph shows a rather sporty looking hat, while above, at the right, is a striking example of the ultra modern in design, white velvet, satin and taffeta appliques and embroidery in bronze, silver and gold.

Below, at the left, is an evening cape of heavy pink crepe embroidered in sequins and crystal bands, and bordered in mink. At the right is a "demountable" sport dress which by means of a series of buttons can be removed in five seconds.

THE UNRULY MEMBER

By LUCY LOWELL

MRS. TEAL felt aggrieved. She was being neglected, slighted, imposed upon—and all by her husband, who had sworn to love, cherish and endow her with all his worldly goods.

Now he would not even buy her the clothes she wanted and he stayed out late some nights and he was as grouchy as he could be. Then along came an older friend, who had the knack of making other people unburden their hearts. So, Mrs. Teal unburdened hers. The more she talked the meaner her husband seemed. After she started she naturally wanted to be th emartyr in the case, so she just exaggerated a little bit.

Now, the older friend was the wife of Mr. Teal's boss, and, of course, the boss heard the sad story of poor Mrs. Teal's mistreatment. So he got it in for Teal. Any man who would treat a sweet little woman that way did not deserve any consideration, he thought. Almost subconsciously he began finding fault with Teal's work and answering him in an abrupt fashion that left the young fellow wondering what on earth he had done. The outcome of the whole thing was that Mr. Teal grew tired of his superior's fault-finding, told him so one day and then lost his job.

By that time Mr. and Mrs. Teal had made up their little quarrel and were as happy together as any two mere mortals can be. Mrs. Teal would have made any sacrifice to help her husband.

But still she did not have sense enough to keep her mouth shut about her grievances.

She did not know that every husband has his own particular line of cussedness and that if it isn't one thing it is another. She had not lived long enough to know that wise women overlook thoughtlessness and selfishness and various other human faults in their husbands. She had not realized that his good qualities and his fine traits compensated for the little mean ones. She did not take into consideration the fact that he overlooked her shortcomings.

So she kept harping on his neglect until his faults began rolling up, in her mind, like a snow ball. That is when she talked too much.

People do themselves and their home folks more harm by talking too much than in any other way. Outsiders are not keenly interested in what any of your kin say or do or think. If you want to be interesting, or entertaining, keep quiet about the goings-on in your own home circle. To narrate such happenings only makes you appear tiresome and often does those you love real harm.

Sweet Pickled Carrots.

Take 20 small young carrots, three cups white vinegar, one and one-half cups white vinegar and one-fourth cup whole mixed spices.

Wash and scrape carrots clean. Cover with boiling water and boil gently until tender. Make a syrup by cooking together vinegar, sugar and spices tied in a bag for five minutes after boiling point has been reached. Drain carrots, pack in clean jars, fill nearly to top with boiling syrup and process 45 minutes. Or pack cooked carrots into sterilized jars which have been fitted with new rubbers, fill to overflowing with boiling syrup and seal at once.

Famous Women

ANNE RADCLIFFE

MRS. ANNE RADCLIFFE was among the first of the feminine novelists of England to attain fame and liberal financial rewards for her labors. She published her first romance, "The Castles of Athlin and Dunbayne," 139 years ago. She also wrote the "Sicilian Romance," "The Romance of the Forest," and "The Mysteries of Udolpho."

For this last book she received the then amazing sum of $2,500. Probably there was much wagging of heads against "such extravagance." Our ancestors used to sit up half the night reading Mrs. Radcliffe's books.

The authoress died in 1823 when only fifty-eight years old.

CREAM TAPIOCA PUDDING.

Soak four tablespoonfuls of pearl tapioca for one hour in cold water to cover. Drain it and put in a double boiler with two cupfuls of scalded milk and cook until the tapioca is clear. Add three tablespoonfuls of sugar to the milk, add three tablespoonfuls of sugar to the beaten yolks of two eggs, pour the hot mixture over the eggs then return to the double boiler and cook until it thickens. Remove from the fire and add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, a teaspoonful of vanilla flavoring and a half salt spoonful of salt. Turn into a serving dish and when could set on ice to chill.

Stringless Beans French Fashion

Cut the ends from the beans that are crisp and fresh, then with a sharp knife cut them into short, slanting lengths into cold water. After all are ready and well washed, cover with boiling water, and a half teaspoonful of salt, and boil rapidly until they are tender. Drain well, then dust with pepper, salt, add a lump of butter and the juice of a half lemon or a tablespoonful of taragon vinegar. Or fry two slices of diced bacon and turn all over the beans, in which case omit the butter.

Plum Jelly.

Take the plums before they are wholly ripe. Cover with boiling water and let them boil slowly until they are thoroughly cooked. Put them through a wire strainer. Measure pulps and add an equal amount of sugar. Simmer until the sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Turn into sterilized jars or glasses. If jelly glases are used, cover with paraffine.

IF EVER anyone felt foolish, it was Reddy Fox when Graywing the Gull asked him where the things were that he wanted to know about. He looked just as foolish as he felt. He was staring all about, with his mouth open in the most foolish way. He couldn't find his tongue for a few minutes. Finally, he managed to answer Graywing's question. "I—I—think Jimmy Skunk must have carried them away," said he.

"Were there many of them?" inquired Graywing.

"The beach was covered with them," returned Reddy.

"Then how could Jimmy Skunk carry them away?" inquired Graywing.

At this, Reddy looked more foolish than ever. He realized then that, of course, Jimmy Skunk couldn't have had anything to do with it, and was honest enough to say so. "But somebody must have carried them away," he declared.

Now Graywing suspected what Reddy had seen, and his eyes twinkled. "Can't you remember," he inquired, "just the spot where you left one of those things?"

Reddy looked about. "Yes," said he, "I left one right on the sand over by that stone, and there are my footprints in the sand where I stood looking at it."

Graywing looked over there. "There seems to be a wet spot there," said he. "Speaking of that wet spot, it looks to me as if there are many wet spots all about here. It must be the things you saw have melted in the sun."

Reddy went over to the stone and examined the wet place. There certainly was a wet place exactly where those little masses of jelly had been lying. "You must be right, Neighbor Gull," said he. "I don't know what those queer things could have been, but they certainly have melted. I am sorry I got you up here for nothing."

"Don't mention it," replied Graywing. "It was no trouble at all. By the way, Neighbor Fox, have you ever seen one of these things?" Graywing was looking down into a pool of water between the rocks.

Reddy went over and jumped up on another rock, from which he could look down into that pool. Right away he became so excited that he nearly fell into the pool. "There's one now!" he cried. "There's one of those things down in the water! The beach was just covered with them."

Graywing laughed right out. "I thought as much," said he. "That, Reddy, is a Jellyfish. Of course, it can't live out of water but see how pretty it is in the water."

Reddy Gets Stung

The curious will, soon or late,
Find out they're stung, as sure as fate.
—Graywing the Gull.

IF EVER anyone felt foolish, it was Reddy Fox when Graywing the Gull asked him where the things were that he wanted to know about. He looked just as foolish as he felt. He was staring all about, with his mouth open in the most foolish way. He couldn't find his tongue for a few minutes. Finally, he managed to answer Graywing's question. "Don't mention it," replied Graywing. "It was no trouble at all. By the way, Neighbor Fox, have you ever seen one of these things?" Graywing was looking down into a pool of water between the rocks.

Reddy went over and jumped up on another rock, from which he could look down into that pool. Right away he became so excited that he nearly fell into the pool. "There's one now!" he cried. "There's one of those things down in the water! The beach was just covered with them."

Graywing laughed right out. "I thought as much," said he. "That, Reddy, is a Jellyfish. Of course, it can't live out of water, but see how pretty it is in the water."

"There's one now," he cried.

It was pretty. It was a round disc that still looked as if it were made of jelly, but the edges of it were moving, and to Reddy's surprise he discovered it was swimming. From underneath this round disc Reddy could see long, thread-like things streaming out behind. "Do you call that thing a fish?" he cried.

"Folks call it a Jellyfish," said Graywing, "though, of course, it isn't a real fish; but it is alive and swims, as you can see."

"But what became of all those I saw on the beach?" cried Reddy.

Again Graywing chuckled. "They melted," said he. "You see that Jellyfish there is made up mostly of water, and so in the hot sun he disappears when he is out on the beach."

The Jellyfish was close in. Reddy wondered if he couldn't scoop it out on the rocks to see if it would melt. He thrust a black paw in among a lot of those little threads, intending to slip it under that disc and scoop the Jellyfish out. "Wow!" cried Reddy, and fell backward off that rock. He had been stung. The threads of that Jellyfish had stung him. It is a way they have of doing. Now Graywing did laugh! But it was some time before Reddy could see the joke.

Useful Hints for the Needle-Woman.

THE modern woman's bedquilt, though it is pieced in orthodox manner, is not made of calico pieces. One is made of unbleached muslin; the design of the "rising sun" is stenciled on all of the border blocks. It also appears in the center, but here it is surrounded by a huge wreath of morning glories, the flowers done in pastel shades. The yellow sun is shaded in with misty rosy clouds. The blocks are stitched accurately together with the sewing machine, the novel touch being that each seam is corded with a tiny yellow cord. A six-inch yellow border running around the entire quilt is quilted in circles.

Making handkerchiefs seems to be a favorite occupation. Some of the workers roll the hems and sew them over small colored cords, then they embroider their initials to match in the corners. Again they roll the hems and edge them with lace. Sometimes they hemstitch them in several rows, which makes them look quite elaborate.

Home-made neckwear is receiving quite a lot of attention. There are collar and cuff sets of dainty organdy with colored borders and applique motifs used with cut work and stitchery. This is a new idea and a very lovely one. The sets are used on summer coats and gowns.

The greatest piece of work is the embroidering of large wreaths in color in the middle of plain damask dinner cloths, with the initial six inches deep in the center. The work is done in satin stitch while the flowers are "filled" in the old-fashioned way. This method raises the flowers and makes them very showy. This work takes the place of the center piece.

Setting in large lace butterflies on panels of linen, silk or organdy to be made up into parasols is a dainty job. The finished parasol is very Frenchy in appearance. Most of them are made all white.

For the woman who is busy about her home and wears aprons a lot, the aprons of fine linen lawn hemstitched in color seem to be favorites. Instead of the old way of gathering the apron into a band with strings, a casing is made at the top, and ribbon ties are run in, the ties matching the color line in the hemstitching. There are many women at work on kitchen linens, even the sash curtains are handmade. White dotted muslin curtains have some of the dot overworked in color to make odd appearing and very attractive borders.

TOMATO CONSERVE.

Pare ten firm tomatoes, cut in slices, and allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pound of the pulp. Place in a deep dish, layers of the tomato with sugar between, then squeeze over all the juice of two lemons and two oranges. Let stand over night. In the morning, put into a preserve kettle a generous sized spice bag containing cinnamon, cloves, green ginger, allspice, nutmeg and a quarter of a bay leaf. Let cook slowly until thick, and, when nearly done, add a cupful of large seeded raisins, a tablespoonful of chopped, candied orange peel and a cupful of chopped nuts. Turn into little jam pots and cool, then cover down and store in a cool, dry place.

Beautifying the Legs

By Lucrezia Bori

SINCE the modistes have decided that we must continue to wear short skirts, if we are to be fashionably gowned, it might be well to consider some exercises that will develop the legs.

When legs are not attractive, it seems a great pity that this lack of beauty should be so blatantly displayed.

It was much easier in the old days when skirts were longer and fuller; for imperfections could be tucked away under the voluminous folds of our grandmothers' gowns. But today we must correct our imperfections, instead of covering them up. This brings us back to the developing of legs so that we may display beauty rather than homeliness.

It isn't hard to develop the legs. All sports that entail walking or running are good. Dancing is still better. Walking up and down stairs on the balls of the feet will do wonders to develop the legs in a short time.

A special exercise that can be gone through several times each day without inconvenience is this:

Stand erect with the shoulders back, the head up and the chest raised. The feet should be about six inches apart with the toes pointing straight ahead. Slowly rise up on the toes as far as possible, then slowly lower the body. Repeat twenty times.

Joy in swimming!

It is the well nourished child who gets most of the fun. Life is a delightful alternation of play and food but with some children the play gets so absorbing that food ceases to tempt. Not Marshak's, of course; Marshak's is always welcome. It makes children drink milk willingly.

The Man on the Sandbox

by L. C. Davis

THE PASSING SHOW.

DUTCH REUTHER has become a Yank
To work for little Huggie.
And Miller he'll sincerely thank
For riding in the buggy.
When it was found that Dutch was through
With Bucky's old has-beeners,
They promptly sent the Dutchman to
A team of pennant winners.

Though he no longer is so much
On his career we ponder;
The pennant seems to follow
Dutch
Wherever he may wander.
The Rabbit turned a clever trick
When Dutch began to falter,
For though he doesn't pitch a lick.
The flag will follow Walter.

At tipping, Calvin took a rap,
And on it placed a limit;
Employes who disburse lagniappe
Down to the bone must trim it.
The edict will be tough on George,
The trusty Pullman porter,
As tips employes may disgorge
Shall not exceed a quarter.

The bellboy and chamber maid
Will swell with indignation;
But 30 cents they will be paid
For extra compensation.
One-dollar-forty-cents a week
Will be allowed for laundry
And how to keep well-groomed and sleek
The boys are in a quandary.

"Good Liquor in New York Rare," Says Gen. Andrews.

How does he know?

Good liquor may be rare, but raw liquor is plentiful. So we are informed.

Charley Hoff, champion pole vaulter, has turned pro. There being no other professional pole vaulters, he will still be in a class by himself.

Win, lose or draw, we insist on putting on a "Little World Series" every now and then.

The Police Department was conspicuously absent in the famous parade last week. With the regular army leading the procession, there was no need for coppers.

See where the Browns' pennant hopes got another jolt when Chester Falk showed up with a sore arm and Jimmy Austin had to knock off on account of stomach trouble.

However, we deny that the Browns play like stuffed dolls, as a correspondent said. They had the stuffing knocked out of them long ago.

SHADE OF MERGENTHALER!

Our pennant hopes were pi'd again when Washington beat out the St. Louis Typos by an en. Etaoin! Shrdlu! Cmfwyp!
